FAN OUT FROM COAST; PLUNGE DEEPER INLAND

Clamp Vise on 40 Mi. Arc Around Toe.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA., Sept. 5 (AP).—Allied forces throwing Commando clawlike pincers over the top of the Italian toe have seized Bagnara, clamped a firm hold on a 40 mile invasion arc from Melito to Bagnara, and taken more than 2,000 prisoners.

At least 40 coastal and inland towns and villages have been taken by allied troops.

Among villages occupied by columns sweeping up the coast road were San Gregorio, San Leo, Pellaro, Madonnella, Lazzaro, Cannitello, and Porto Salvo. Melito is the southern terminal of a cross peninsular road.

Forces Join at Bagnara.

Repeating the highly successful American landing jumps along the Sicilian north coast, a big Commando force captured Bagnara 10 miles northeast of San Giovanni, and was joined by the infantry men speeding up the shores against still feeble enemy resistance, allied headquarters announced today.

Other Commandos landed at Melito, rounding the southern edge of the toe 15 miles south of Reggio Calabria, and found that road junction already evacuated by the Italians.

[A dispatch from The Tribune's correspondent, John Thompson, said the capture of Melito followed a Commando landing 48 hours before the main invasion. The Commandos on reconnaissance thru the area found Melito undefended. They withdrew, but reported the news and the 8th army easily reached Melito.]

Plunge Into Hilly Interior.

Under personal leadership of dashing 8th army Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, British and Canadian troops in the third day of invasion were fanning in both directions along the coast and plunging deeper inland on the toe, where the axis might elect to stand in natural mountainous defenses.

An Algiers [allied controled] broadcast recorded in London by the Associated Press said allied troops were on the outskirts of Palmi, 5 miles beyond Bagnara.

[Italian headquarters reported allied armored units were knifing inland, and that "violent fighting is in progress in the area east of Bagnara and on the slopes of the Aspromonte [Bitter] mountains" inside the lower toe. "Between Palmi and Bagnara, the defending forces after having thrown the first British contingent back into the sea, had to withdraw from Bagnara," the Italian war bulletin said.]

Casualties Light to Date.

The tremendous drubbing of Italian railroads has knocked out their usefulness to the Germans in any effort to rush large reënforcing armies into southern or central Italy, allied headquarters announced.

Aground, casualities thus far have been light on both sides.

But the enemy resorted to extensive demolitions before withdrawing, and these are slowing the advance along both the north and south coastal roads. So far no mines have been found, and the strong artillery and anti-aircraft batteries that the axis formerly had on this tip of continental Europe obviously had been pulled back.

[Reuters (British) news agency quoted an Algiers broadcast saying that the Italian fleet had abandoned Taranto naval base, inside the Italian instep. According to the latest information in London the Italians had two battleships of the modernized Cavour class at Taranto along with one or two cruisers and a handful of destroyers. If this force left Taranto it either would have to make a bold run around Sicily to join the bulk of the Italian fleet on the west coast or withdraw into the Adriatic, perhaps to Trieste.]

6 Commandos Take 4 Towns and Prisoners

BY PAUL KERN LEE.

ABOARD THE BRITISH DESTROYER QUAIL IN MESSINA STRAIT, Sept. 4 [Delayed]—(AP).—Six British Commando troopers were taken off the southern coast of Italy's boot today by this destroyer along with seven Italian prisoners, one a girl, who were all the vessel could accommodate.

In more than a week behind the enemy's lines the Commandos had destroyed all opposition in four Italian towns, taken an embarrassingly large number of prisoners, and played hob with enemy communications. They were short of food, however, and their commander, Maj. Peter Young, wanted to make his report.

The Quail was on patrol along the south coast as far as the Gulf of Squillace. We were half a mile off shore, opposite the mouth of a dry river near a small village, when our commanding officer, Lt. Comdr. R. F. Jenks of London, noticed some one waving from a farm house.

We were so used to Italians waving white flags that this was not unusual, but the captain noted that this fellow seemed to be waving purposefully, and he ordered the signals yeoman:

"See if that man knows semaphore."

200 Seek to Surrender.

The man ashore did, and with rude flags he waved:

"Five of us have cleared this place. Two hundred disarmed Italians in rail tunnel down road want to surrender. Also can you send boat?"

"I don't want 200 Italians aboard," said our captain, and signaled: "Why do you want a boat?"

The man ashore replied: "We been here over week and wish report."

We still did not know the identity of the signaler, but Capt. Jenks said, "It's probably British Commandos. Anyhow, it's tea time, so let's bring them off for a cup."

So the Quail stopped off the enemy shore and lowered a boat, with myself as a passenger. As we arrived at the beach, a score of helmeted Italian soldiers with rifles and packs rushed down to the water's edge. Alert to the possibility of a trap, Sub. Lt. Geoffrey Gillott had the gun trained against them. At that instant five weary men dressed in khaki and wearing green Commando berets sauntered down from the bushes.

Herd Italians Into Line.

Two of them herded the Italians into a single line, while two others knelt behind the sand dunes, covering the road just behind the beach with automatic rifles. The fifth, who proved to be Maj. Young, came to greet us.

Maj. Young said his group came ashore Saturday night to spy out the land, take prisoners and do what damage they could. They were joined by a small group of others who had landed Friday night.

Their boat was wrecked on the

SEIZE DONETZ MINING TOWN 15 MILES AWAY

Threaten Konotop, Ukraine Citadel.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—Russian forces sweeping thru the Donetz basin captured the mining and manufacturing city of Artemovsk today in nine mile plunges that overran more than 120 towns and villages and placed Red artillery only 15 miles from the axis bastion of Stalino.

Stalino was reported in flames, an indication that the Germans were burning it and destroying installations before abandoning that city, which had served as their southern headquarters.

A Moscow war bulletin also announced the seizure of a rail junction 85 miles south of Bryansk. This gave the Red army a grip on a 70 mile stretch of the Bryansk-Kiev railway above Konotop, northern Ukraine citadel which is menaced with imminent capture or encirclement.

Seize 250 Villages.

Gains west and southwest of Kharkov and before Smolensk on the central front also were reported as the Russians captured more than 250 villages on all fronts during the day to boost their total bag to more than 1,500 in the last week.

Artemovsk, formerly Bakhmut, is 42 miles north of the steel city of Stalino on the railway to Slavyansk, another big axis base 25 miles to the northwest. It has a peace time population of approximately 40,000 and is noted for its coal and quicksilver. Steel rails also were once manufactured there.

Stalino was threatened by numerout Russian columns striking from three sides. One unit toppled Khartsyzsk, 15 miles east. Other soviet forces striking down from the north were only slightly farther away from the city which the Germans have held since October, 1941.

Berlin Admits Retreat.

A Berlin broadcast acknowledged an axis withdrawal all along the Donetz basin front, terming it as usual, "movements for shortening of the front." It added that "masses of soviet men and tanks were trying in vain to disturb the German detaching movements.'

The Russian war bulletin reported the capture of more than 100 localities in the Konotop area, and 50 more south of Bryansk as the Russians pressed steadily toward the Desna river, last major water barrier east of the Dnieper. The gains ranged from four to eight and a half miles in those sectors.

Russian troops apparently had flanked Konotop with the seizure of Korop, on the northwest near the Desna. Some of these units were reported striking westward toward the railway connecting Konotop with Gomel. Others had turned southward along the Desna's eastern banks apparently to take Konotop from the rear.

Improve Kharkov Line.

German resistance centered largely around rail junctions, but the Russians were seizing these at a rapid pace except in the area west and south of Kharkov where the Nazis thus far have made a firmer stand in order to protect the escape routes leading out of the Donetz basin.

The announcement said Russian troops, however, had occupied several more localities in that area during the day to "considerably improve their positions."

The soviet bulletin said that the Red army had knocked out 92 tanks and shot down 70 planes during Saturday's fighting on all fronts.

Death Strikes in Russia with Blinding Flash

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY.

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT, Sept. 5 (AP).—Death on the Russian front looks like a blinding white flash of light. It sounds like the snap of a tremendous firecracker. It rushes skyward carrying away your friends so quickly they are gone before you know it happened.

I saw it happen when an antitank mine burst under the second in a line of eight jeeps and killed three soviet officials accompanying 13 American and British newspaper correspondents on a trip to the front. The chauffeur of the same jeep was wounded. The correspondents escaped without a scratch.

Searchlights Streak Sky.

The mine exploded on the road just east of Belgorod, at 11 p. m. on Sept. 1 in the nightmarish setting of a dark night with the glare of fire on the horizon as artillery batteries fired on two sides. Red and green flares and white searchlights streaked the sky as planes droned overhead.

The caravan stopped at a control point after we flew to the front zone in an armed passenger plane with an escort of four soviet Yak-7 fighters. We proceeded cautiously in the line of jeeps with the chauffeurs keeping their lights out and driving at widely spaced intervals. The head of the caravan started down the road again.

Suddenly death came. The second jeep disappeared in a blaze of light. The blast rushed skyward. Darkness returned and the silence was broken by groans.

Sit in Jeeps All Night.

The first jeep, carrying two Red army colonels, turned quickly. Others behind jolted to a halt. Headlights showed the second jeep hurled 20 yards from the left shoulder of the dirt road. Two bodies were found crushed and partly dismembered. We sat thruout the night in the jeeps ahd found another body at dawn in the wood where it had been thrown 60 feet from the road.

That form of death has become one of the most prevalent on this front as the Germans in retreat are laying an unprecedented number of mines.

That mine was a 16-pounder packed in a wooden case to escape detection by Red army demining devices which signal the presence of metal by vibrations. Probes on long poles are used to find wooden mines.

At Demininy, headquarters of this front, Col. Alexander Danilovich Tsirlin told us 70,000 mines were removed at four points where the Red army attacked Kharkov.

CROWDS AT AIR SHOW PASS HALF A MILLION; IT WILL END TONIGHT

The great air power show sponsored by the army air force materiel command and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in Tribune square passed the 500,000 mark in attendance yesterday, with still another day of the exhibition remaining. The show closes at 10:30 o'clock tonight. It opened Aug. 7. Attendance yesterday totaled 26,148.

The 500,000th visitor—and unquestionably the most pleasantly surprised—was Miss Doris Bennett, 18 years old, 1650 Roscoe street. As a symbolic tribute to the interest all Chicago has shown in the show, she will be given an airplane ride this afternoon. It will be her first.

At her request, her companion, Miss Barbara Carmichael, 1867 Orchard street, who was the 500,001st visitor, also will be taken up. The arrangements were made by Capt. William C. Karbach and Sgt. Alex Tremulis. The pilot will be Miss Edythe Carlton of Maywood.

Seize Friend of Slain Girl in Death Quiz

Two men were held yesterday by Maxwell street police for questioning in the fatal slugging of Phyllis Blair, 23 years old, 4937 North Hoyne avenue, a war worker. They are Peter Miserendino, 23, of 719 Miller street, a laborer, and George Karas, 29, of 907 Harrison street, a waiter.

Miserendino was arrested Friday night and Karas was seized by police early yesterday. Both will face lie detector tests tomorrow.

Miss Blair died in Ravenswood hospital Aug. 2. She was returning from the Republic Steel and Die company, 322 South Green street, police believed, when she was slugged near her home on July 31.

Girl Falls Unconscious.

Her aunt, Mrs. Katherine Linder, met Miss Blair at the door. Blood was streaming from the girl's head. She mumbled, "A man hit me with a brick," then fell unconscious. She remained in coma until her death. At the subsequent inquest it was established that she was pregnant.

Police said that questioning of Miss Blair's acquaintances and fellow workers had revealed that she and Miserendino were friends and that she was last seen in a tavern at Jackson boulevard and Halsted street. The police said Miserendino, a frequent visitor at the place, had been barred from there last winter after having been questioned in a rape case. Miserendino is married and has a child.

Miserendino admitted he had known the Blair girl, after being confronted by a woman who said she had introduced the two, the police said. Karas was held because he was said to have been intimate with a friend of the slain girl.

Prisoners Have Police Records.

Miserendino has a police record, including 90 days in the Bridewell in 1938 on a charge of larceny of automobile, later changed to petty larceny. Police records also showed he was held in the county jail in May, 1938, and was committed to Dixon state hospital in October of the same year as feeble minded. He was arrested six times prior to being committed, according to police records.

Dr. Bruce D. Hart, assistant superintendent at Dixon, said last night that Miserendino was paroled to his parents in May, 1941, with extensions granted to June of this year.

Karas' record includes four months in the county jail in 1933, charged with larceny of an automobile. He was arrested in 1942 on a rape charge and was acquitted.

Leads Troops Landing at Lae in Rear of Foe

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 6 [Monday]. (AP).—A powerful allied force, comprised mainly of Australian troops, has landed on the coast of Huon gulf east of Lae, New Guinea, isolating the Lae-Salamaua area from supply bases up the coast.

"The investment of Lae has begun," said Gen. MacArthur, who is in New Guinea in personal command of operations.

Striking with paralyzing force, the allied troops stormed ashore under cover of a smoke screen Saturday morning after naval forces had prepared the way with a heavy bombardment.

"In a coördinated ground, air, and naval operation, our troops, in heavy force, have successfully landed on the coast northeast of Lae, cutting the enemy's line of communication to Finschhafen and the north coast of New Guinea," a bulletin said.

Lt. Gen. Kenney [left], Vice Adm. Carpender, and Gen. Blamey [right].

Meet Little Opposition.

"The movement was a complete surprise and the landing was made with little opposition. The movement to invest and isolate the Lae-Salamau area is under way."

Lae is one of the principal Japanese bases in central New Guinea. It lies about 15 miles northwest of Salamaua, on which American and Australian troops gradually have been closing in.

Six hours after the successful landing, the allied protective air cover intercepted and dispersed an enemy formation of bombers, escorted by 35 fighters, which struck at the invading forces.

There were few allied casualties in the landing itself, but the Japanese air raid damaged two small allied boats and caused casualties.

The landing troops were under the direction of Gen. Thomas Blamey of the Australian army, commander of allied land forces in the Southwest Pacific. Vice Adm. Arthur S. Carpender commanded the naval forces; and Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney directed the air forces.

Hurl 96 Tons on Foe.

As the infantry was moving ashore to the east, allied heavy bombers blasted Lae itself with 96 tons of explosives. Gun positions and other installations were heavily damaged. At the same time Mitchell bombers roared along the coast, strafing enemy positions.

The Japanese sought desperately to fight off the attacking airmen over Lae and 21 enemy fighters were shot down.

Gen. Blamey said the Japanese apparently had been deceived by the operations at Salamaua to the south. They evidently thought, he said, that Salamaua was the main allied objective, whereas actually, for several weeks, the ground fighting there has been of a diversionary nature.

The Australian commander said the Japanese positions at Lae were the best they had established anywhere in this campaign. Lae has two airstrips three miles apart—the Lae airdrome and Malahang.

The great Japanese naval and air base at Rabaul, New Britain, which had not been attacked for nearly two months, was subjected to a four-hour night harassing raid.

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 5 (AP).—American Liberator bombers, winging almost 1,000 miles over the Indian ocean, have opened a new western aerial offensive against the approaches to the Netherlands East Indies, a 10th United States air force headquarters bulletin said today.

The raid was carried out Friday without loss against Car Nicobar Island, 320 miles northwest of Sumatra. The bulletin said "excellent results were reported." Direct hits were scored on docks and installations.

Mackinac Island, Mich., Sept. 5.—Two potential presidential candidates—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio—came to the meeting of the Republican post-war advisory council today declaring for Anglo-American coöperation as the anchor of world peace.

At a press conference, Gov. Dewey was asked for comment on the published report that a military alliance between the United States and Great Britain continuing after the war is the objective of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Gov. Dewey replied that he favors such a military alliance as the most effective means of safeguarding the defense of the United States and Great Britain from attack, and of discouraging aggression generally.

Understanding Required.

At a later press conference Gov. Bricker, in response to similar questioning, said he believes that mutual interests and the preservation of world peace require a complete understanding between the United States and Great Britain now and after the war. The agreement should cover trade and other interests, and circumstances he said might require its expansion into a military alliance to preserve peace.

The Ohio governor emphasized however that in this or any other plan of international coöperation for the preservation of peace the United States must retain its complete sovereignty with full freedom to act. An agreement with another nation, he said, does not involve any surrender of sovereignty. He declared himself opposed to the creation of an international force to police the world, which would involve a surrender of sovereignty.

"Dewey Swallows Lippmann."

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio commented that Dewey had swallowed Walter Lippmann whole.

"The resolution that is to be adopted," said Taft, "stresses the necessity of preserving national sovereignty. It does not include or exclude an alliance unless somebody obtrudes the issue. Therefore, I don't believe Dewey's statement will have much effect."

On the eve of the meeting of the council to begin mapping the Republican program for the 1944 presidential election, the indications are that the world state and international police force proposed by the Willkie internationalists have been tossed out of the window.

Both Dewey and Bricker reflected prevailing sentiment among the Republican leaders here when they said that not until the close of the war will it be possible to determine what specific measures of international coöperation are most feasible for the preservation of peace.

Resolution by Vandenberg.

Sentiment among the leaders appears to be crystalizing in favor of a declaration for international cooperation to maintain peace along the lines of the resolution offered by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan providing for no impairment of American sovereignty, for observance of constitutional process, and recognition of American responsibilities and interests.

Of equal importance in the pronouncement will be the party attitude on the multitude of economic and social questions that will confront the country after the war, including the preservation of private enterprise and the American form of government.

At the outset of his press conference, Gov. Dewey gave out a statement which he said represents his

WEAR GREATER ON TRIB-BUNA TRUCK TIRES

Tread Less Durable Than on Passenger Cars.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on page 16.)

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 5.—Preliminary statistics on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE tire test indicated today synthetic treads on a one and a half ton truck will wear out almost twice as rapidly as the artificial rubber wears on a passenger car.

In 500 miles on smooth pavements at 35 miles an hour, the 6.00 by 20 front tires on the truck lost .0115 of an inch of tread designs which have a depth of .3735 of an inch. At this rate of wear these tires would be bald at 16,239 miles. The indicated life expectancy of the passenger car tires, judged from 1,000 miles of driving at 35 miles an hour is 27,280 miles.

Speedway Wear Greater.

Wear measurements on 1,000 miles of driving for four rear truck tires indicated a tread life expectancy averaging 17,618 miles. However, Don C. Waugh, technician loaned to the test crew by Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, was reluctant to accept authenticity of these rear wheel measurements because the 1,000 miles included 150 on the Indianapolis speedway at 35 m. p. h. The wear on passenger car tires in 500 miles at 35 miles per hour on the speedway was more than four times the rate of wear in highway driving at the same speed. The 360 degrees of turning every two and a half miles on the track cost rubber.

Test Speed to Increase.

In THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE tire test, both the passenger car and the light truck are equipped with 100 per cent Trib-buna rubber. This Trib-buna is the government's standard buna-S synthetic. The only distinction in raw materials for the main ingredient of Trib-buna is alcohol made from waste sulphite liquor at a pioneer plant by THE TRIBUNE at its Canadian paper mills. The government synthetic program uses petroleum and alcohol from grain.

The tire test to date has not exceeded 35 miles an hour. At this speed, within the national limit, the tires performed satisfactorily on smooth pavements. Still to be determined are these important questions: [1] Will the rate of wear be constant? [2] Will the tires withstand higher speeds? [3] And will the tires withstand rough roads?

This week, Trib-buna will be tested at 50 miles an hour.

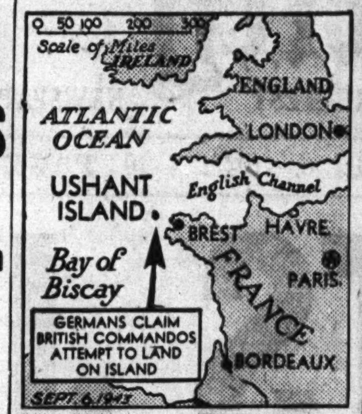
Action on Island



Location of "landing attempt."

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—The German radio asserted today without allied confirmation that British Commandos had attempted a landing Friday night on the tiny island of Ushant, just off the westernmost point on the Atlantic coast of France.

Berlin declared the attack was beaten off after a single vessel had reached the beach.

British combined operations headquarters and other official quarters declined to confirm or deny the reported action, but Commando units carry out many reconnaissance thrusts which never are announced in London.

The Berlin broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said a few raiders from one vessel reached the shore but fled, discarding helmets, hand grenades and rifle ammunition when German coast guard units discovered them and opened fire.

Light British coastal forces fought a sharp battle with a large group of armed enemy minesweepers and heavily armed patrol vessels off the French coast early today, scoring a torpedo hit on one enemy patrol ship and severely damaging two more, the admiralty announced.

Arizona Plant Refitting Bomber for Churchill

Tucson, Ariz., Sept. 5 (AP).—The Commando, Winston Churchill's far-traveled Liberator bomber, has arrived at the Tucson division of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft to be refitted as a transport. Now on its fourth set of engines, the bomber carried the British prime minister to Russia, Turkey, Cairo, the first unconditional surrender conference at Casablanca, and the recent parley at Quebec. Officials here said they expected the refitted plane would be returned to the prime minister's service.

2 BOTTLENECKS SEEN AS CHOICES FOR AXIS STAND

Allies Win First Highway Across Italian Toe.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 5.—The allied capture of Bagnara on the northern coast of the Italian toe gives Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery control of the first hard surface east and west highway across Calabria which ends 22 miles away at Bova. The next such cross country road will be encountered 10 miles up the western coast at much bombed Gioja which is located in the delta of the Petrace river, one of the worst earthquake zones in Italy.

Danger of Sea Landings.

But whether the axis will attempt to stand there is considered problematical. From the topography of the country it would appear better for delaying lines to be set up at the two Calabrian bottlenecks, one 18 miles wide at Francavilla to the Gulf of Squillace 30 miles north of Gioja and the other 35 miles wide extending eastward to the Gulf of Taranto, from Belvedere 60 miles north of Francavilla.

It is doubtful too whether the axis high command would consider placing troops in these positions for fear of their being cut off by sea landings in their rear. The Germans, however, have sacrificed Italians before and the description given by the German radio of the Italian action in southern Italy as a screen may indicate that the Italians are to be given the same rôle again.

Few Germans Captured.

With nearly 2,000 miles of Italian coast open to attack, the German high command possibly may also be withholding its mobile reserves until it decides if Montgomery's attack is the main threat before committing its reserve man power. It is obvious that the mobility and elasticity of the allied military strength in the Mediterranean is acting as a deterent to any strong German reaction to the 8th army landings.

Only a few Germans are reported to be among the thousands already taken and as far as is known here no German tanks have been engaged.

110 PRIESTS TAKE PART IN FUNERAL FOR KING BORIS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

King Boris III. of Bulgaria was buried yesterday after elaborate funeral services in Alexander Nevsky cathedral in Sofia, attended by high German officials and members of the royal family, a German broadcast said.

The Germans supplied a guard of honor and a naval band, and detachments of other axis troops stood guard as the body of the monarch was taken on a gun carriage to the railway station for transportation to the monastery at St. Ivan Rilski, in the Rila mountains for burial, said the broadcast.

Heading foreign delegations were Adm. Erich Raeder, Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, Adolf von Steengracht, assistant secretary of state in the German foreign office, the duke of Bergame, representing the Italian king, and Japanese Minister Yamadschi. One hundred and ten priests participated in the ceremonies.

Bullet Thru Window Adds Thrill to Radio War News

Five minutes after Leonard V. Roren, 725 Sheridan road, a salesman, left his desk and stretched out on the living room carpet to listen to war news on the radio yesterday, a stray bullet shattered the window, ricocheted from the wall, and grazed his arm.

Mrs. Gregory stopped counting her birthdays long ago, they grew to be so many. It was hard for her to find many active ways to help in this war — until she remembered how good she'd always been with children. BOMBS LAY MUCH OF ITALY'S RAIL SYSTEM IN RUINS

Raids Continue in South and Naples Area.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 5 (AP).—Much of Italy's railway system lies in ruins and has been made valueless to the Germans for defense of southern or central Italy, allied reconnaissance reports said today, as huge air fleets maintained heavy attacks in the Naples and southern areas.

"The damage done to the Italian communications system in the last fortnight by our strategic bombers has been even more devastating than previously supposed," a headquarters announcement said, reporting on wreckage extending from Bolzano and Trento, south of the vital Brenner pass, to Pisa and the Naples area.

Spitfires meanwhile broke up the first large attempt by Italian planes yesterday to strike a counter-blow by air against the allied invasion, shooting down eight out of 20 fighter bombers.

Battle Close to Ground.

The Italian planes, mostly Macchis, jettisoned their bombs and fled with the Spitfires pursuing in a battle "among the ravines and valleys and very close to the ground," one British pilot said. One Spitfire was lost. Elsewhere over the invasion area there was only the weakest kind of air opposition.

United States Flying Fortresses teamed up with long range P-38 Lightnings in widespread blows against airfields, road and railway vehicles in the Naples area on Saturday. R. A. F. and Canadian Wellingtons continued the attacks last night.

The Fortresses hit Terracina, 60 miles northwest of Naples, in a "small raid" and the Lightnings attacked positions and vehicles aground at Grazzanise airfield north of Naples and destroyed seven motor vehicles, several training planes, power lines, and a power station in swift stabs at nearby Sessa Arunca. They also attacked two trains near Cancello, northeast of Naples.

Report a Record Explosion.

The night flying Wellingtons concentrated on Grazzanise air field, bombing the dispersal areas, and crewmen reported one explosion "more violent than any we have ever seen in Sicily or Tunisia."

R. A. F. Liberators and Halifaxes from the middle east bombed Grottaglie airdrome near Taranto Friday night.

[A Liberator bomber is on display at the Air Power show in Tribune Square. The show closes tonight.]

In all yesterday, 12 enemy planes were destroyed during 24 hours of operations that cost six North African air force planes.

United States A-36 dive bombers ranging over the toe of Italy hit all available targets.

R. A. F. Baltimores made three attacks against enemy gun positions, meeting neither ground fire nor enemy aircraft, and Australian Kittyhawks [P-40s] struck road targets and positions ahead of advancing allied troops.

[The Italian war bulletin acknowledged "very heavy damage and many casualties" at Terracina, saying the populace was machine gunned. A Rome broadcast said the allies lost 150 airplanes over Italy from Aug. 25 to Sept. 3.]

Sicily Proves Generous Foe Is Welcome: Winant

SOUTHPORT, England, Sept. 5 (AP). — United States Ambassador John G. Winant told the Workers' Educational association today that the welcome given allied troops in Sicily proved that a generous enemy with good motives will be accepted with friendly enthusiasm.

POLICE SPEED TWINS 45 MILES TO INCUBATORS

Twins less than five hours old had a 45 mile ride yesterday, with police escorts and sirens blowing, because of a problem arising from their birth.

The babies, a girl weighing 2 pounds 5 ounces, and a boy weighing 2 pounds 7 ounces, were born prematurely to Mrs. Richard Murphy, 29 years old, 1514 Brookside place, Waukegan, in St. Therese hospital in Waukegan.

It was necessary to place them in incubators, but the hospital had only one—and needed two. Michael Reese hospital in Chicago was telephoned and its officials said the twins would be received as incubator guests. The babies were brought to Chicago in a car equipped with oxygen and other emergency apparatus, accompanied by a nurse.

U. S. AMBULANCE TRAIN GOES ON FIRST JOURNEY

AN ENGLISH PORT, Sept. 6 [Monday] (AP).—The first American ambulance train in the European theater was used for the first time recently when it transported to military hospitals 200 American sick and wounded who had been brought from the middle east.

A British hospital ship edged into this port early one morning after an uneventful voyage and within a few hours efficient United States medical corpsmen had disembarked the casualties to the 14 coach, khaki painted train built in British railway shops.

SEIZED BY 3; $49 TAKEN.

John Steward, 3601 Prairie avenue, was seized by three Negroes yesterday at 35th street and Prairie avenue and robbed of $49.

HERRIOT GOES INSANE; PUT IN MENTAL CLINIC

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 5.—Edouard Herriot, former president of the French chamber of deputies, has gone insane and is now interned in a mental clinic at Nancy, according to a dispatch from Vichy. He was interned a few months ago in his Savoy estate when he tried to flee France following the allied invasion of Tunisia, the dispatch added. Guards at Herriot's prison noticed some time ago signs of mental disease. Herriot would make political speeches to himself in his cell stressing that he had never wanted this war. His physicians held out little hope for recovery.

ITALIANS MAKE NEW BIDS FOR EASIER PEACE

Gloomy Rome Broadcast Aims at Sympathy.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP).—While allied troops bit deeper into the mainland of Italy, the Italians continued their indirect peace pleas today in a gloomy Rome radio broadcast which said the "sooner we have an honorable peace the better."

The English language broadcast, heard by the ministry of information, came from a closely controled station in the Italian capital, and obviously was an authorized attempt to arouse British and American sympathies.

Paints Dreary Outlook.

After acknowledging the need for swift peace, the Rome broadcast gave this dreary picture of the Italian war outlook:

"We realize, however, that no street demonstrations will bring it [peace] any nearer.

"Meanwhile, the enemy, supported by huge quantities of material and the largest air umbrella ever seen, is advancing on our mainland.

"Our soldiers in Calabria are fighting without pause, but they have not adequate means at their disposal."

Spain Offers Peace Plan.

MADRID, Sept. 5 (AP).—Thru the medium of the officially influential weekly newspaper, El Espanol, Spain put in her bid today for a share in the formation of the basis for world peace.

In a sense, El Espanol's editorial was another peace offensive proposal, altho its trend differed from previous Spanish editorials and statements of official character in that it did not specifically say that the allies should listen to peace proposals now.

Thru it, however, ran the familiar argument—that both sides are concerned about the post-war peace, and both sides want the best possible world organization after the war, and both desire the elimination of "barbarism," which to El Espanol is synonymous with communism.

Such an argument paralleled a German spokesman's statement on Sept. 3 that Germany had no serious quarrel with the United States, Britain, or France.

Dedicate Honor Roll

An army and navy honor roll listing 1,045 men and women was dedicated yesterday in an open area at 119 North York street in Elmhurst.

The honor roll, on a field of blue, under glass and surmounted by a golden American eagle, is 14 feet long and 12 feet wide.

A parade participated in by patriotic organizations preceded the dedication. About 2,000 persons witnessed the ceremonies, in which Mrs. Gertrude Schnetzius, whose son has been reported missing in action, raised the flag, and Mrs. Clarence D. Hill and Mrs. Karl Dezutal, listed as gold star mothers, unveiled the roll of honor. Comdr. William Hayes of T. H. B. post, No. 187, American Legion, presided, and Mayor Claude L. Van Aukin spoke briefly.

YANK AND NAZI CRASH; FRENCH HONOR U. S. HERO

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 5 (AP). — Two fighter planes, one American and the other German, fell in flames during a recent allied raid upon industrial targets in Albert, in northeast France, and plunged side by side into a field, a dispatch to Madrid said today. Both pilots were killed, it said, and added:

At dawn the next morning the Germans were chagrined to see the American plane covered with a red, white, and blue field of flowers in the form of the Stars and Stripes. So intricate was the design that it must have taken many persons hours to arrange.

On the German plane there was not a single flower.

WHITE BANNERS OF SURRENDER LIKE A WASHDAY

Flags Appear All Along Italian Toe.

BY PAUL KERN LEE.

ABOARD THE BRITISH DESTROYER QUAIL IN MESSINA STRAIT, Sept. 3 [Delayed]—(AP).—It looked like washday in a public nursery.

Italian white flags began to blossom along the shore with the first light of day as the allies began their invasion. Before noon the whole of the Italian tiptoe area flapped with white banners in unbelievable profusion.

As our destroyer sped up to within a half mile of Reggio Calabria, white sheets flapped like mad from nearly every roof and men, women, and children frantically waved white handkerchiefs. And as we sailed northward, close inshore, we passed hundreds of civilians waving white flags.

This destroyer and a sister ship, the Quilliam, were the first allied warships to pass thru the strait. We drew only one shot from an enemy coastal battery.

900 Guns Lined Up.

The landings—made by the Canadian 1st and British 5th—were preceded by one of the most concentrated artillery barrages of the war. More than 900 big guns, lined literally hub to hub on the Sicilian beaches, smashed the invasion beaches to nothingness. In the north, where the strait is less than two miles wide, even machine guns were used.

Promptly at 3:30 a. m., hell on a huge scale broke loose from Sicily. Little guns, medium guns, and big guns lighted up the whole coast with brilliant orange, white, and pink flashes. Almost immediately fires broke out on the Italian side.

We pressed near until the big guns were firing over our heads. This destroyer soon met swarms of assault landing craft, moving steadily toward Italy like automobiles on a pre-war Sunday afternoon on an American parkway. We stalled around keeping guard on their southern flank.

The Enemy: In Two Rowboats.

I saw only three gun flashes from the Italian shore in reply to the big barrage, and these were promptly smothered by American guns in Sicily.

The acrid, sickly-sweet smell of the barrage pervaded everything. Thru the shroud Lt. H. G. Grace sighted two small vessels.

Instantly he gave the alert, anticipating an E-boat attack, but closer approach showed two rowboats with four Italian soldiers in each. They had been rowing steadily toward Sicily, but they stopped and began waving white flags, shouting and pleading to be picked up.

"Row, you scoundrels," Lt. Commander R. F. Jenks, son of the former lord mayor of London, shouted in reply.

A large formation of American aircraft wheeled overhead. This was the first appearance of any aircraft of either side and the enemy has not yet appeared at this writing. Subsequently large squadrons of Mitchells, Marauders and Spitfires also appeared overhead, but they seemed to have difficulty in finding suitable targets.

Gen. Montgomery Crosses.

At 6:53 a. m. a landing craft signaled: "Population Reggio on shore waving white flags. One soldier seen. No resistance." And at 7:25 another signaled: "Civilians in boat report no resistance Reggio."

Our destroyers sped up and we found this to be true. A short time later Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery crossed our bows aboard a motor launch en route to the mainland.

This destroyer and the sister ship went right past unroofed San Giovanni, past the railway yards that were a shambles of wrecked trains and gaily steamed thru Messina strait. This would have been suicide as recently as 10 days ago and only four days ago motor torpedo boats cautiously negotiated the strait in the dark of night.

Powerful British naval forces patrolling the narrow body of water had found nothing to do save serve as grandstand seats for the crews.

We celebrated the occasion on a bottle of sherry the captain had bought at Gibraltar.

The ship's company is running a lottery on when Italy will offer to surrender.

Allied Bombers Busy Over Burma

EASIER THAN MANEUVERS

BY DANIEL DE LUCE.

[Associated Press war correspondent representing the combined American Press.]

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 3 [Delayed]—(AP).—Hundreds of Italian soldiers who surrendered without a fight marched smilingly toward Sicily today as the vanguard of the British 8th army rushed onward.

The allied landing was literally easier and safer than some of the tough exercises which the Canadian and British troops underwent in the long months of training in the United Kingdom. It was carried out with far fewer casualties than the first day of the Sicilian campaign.

The first allied sappers got ashore at 4:30 a. m. and the bulk of the assault troops landed at 5 a. m. or later. Reggio Calabria, the picturesque modern seaside metropolis of Calabria province, was taken at 9 a. m. with hardly a shot fired.

I can testify that an invasion is a cinch when you control the sea and air.

I hitch-hiked from Sicily to Italy this morning in an American made "duck," thanks to the kindness of Capt. Frank Speir of Westhampton Beach, N. Y., who waved me regally from a beach below Messina to a seat atop ammunition cases in one of the 8th army's "amphibious trucks."

"I was over to Italy about 5 a. m. and I'm going over again before noon," he said. "Fancy two trips to Italy between breakfast and lunch."

Speir, an engineer in the allied amphibious command, obviously marveled himself at the seagoing efficiency of the Detroit manufactured "ducks" which rolled in unbroken columns from a Sicilian highway into the wind-crinkled surf, and churned off in lines miles long toward the European shore.

Quickest Trip to Europe.

"The tall, long, six wheeled boat trucks carry about four tons of cargo, including jeeps, and average six knots in a moderate sea," he explained.

Speir, wearing a floppy canvas hat, khaki shorts, and tennis shoes, climbed aboard another "duck" and, with a royal navy motorboat in the lead like a mother goose, my craft started me on the quickest and pleasantest voyage I ever made to Europe.

Remember, this is only four hours after the invasion began. The only evidences of armed action were American and British guns firing at long range across the channel from Sicily. Far to the south heavy British warships were pummeling a few Italian targets, but this action on the rim of the horizon seemed unreal.

Despite continual shells our "duck" shipped no water and the skipper displayed confidence akin to that of Columbus.

In less than two hours we pulled in beside a big landing ship and our truck hurried up wire matting on the Italian sand just on the outskirts of Reggio Calabria.

Visits a Dressing Station.

The dusty faces of Italian prisoners broke into wide grins and they made the "V" sign as they passed me.

In a requisitioned seaside farmhouse I visited a field dressing station where the only battle casualty was a British Tommy who had accidentally shot himself in the foot.

"Only two enemy shells are reported to have landed on this beach during our first assault," said a medical lieutenant.

A major said he was just about to move inland in order to keep up with the swift progress. The words were hardly out of his mouth when the scream of a diving plane and fire of ground batteries made all the staff hit dirt.

I got a mouthful of Italian dust and covered my helmetless head with my hands as two of the German plane's three bombs bracketed me within 50 yards.

Caught in Only Air Raid.

One bomb missed a landing ship. A second raised a choking cloud of smoke and powder fumes in the grove. A third set the house beside the railroad tracks on fire. It's my luck—and I'm not crabbing about it—to get caught in the middle of the only enemy air raid all day on the invasion forces in Italy.

The German air force never looked weaker than in that sortie by a single fighter-bomber when lush targets of hundreds of surface craft and thousands of motor vehicles were presented from dawn to dark along Messina strait.

I saw only one German prisoner—a service corps veteran in his late twenties. He apparently deserted his company and had hid in a barn until the 8th army arrived. Still shaken by the night barrage of British and American guns from across the channel he nearly fainted in the lemon grove during the bombing.

REDS LAY BARE ELABORATE NAZI DEFENSE LINES

Consist of 3 Zones 10 to 12 Miles Deep.

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY.

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STEPPE FRONT, Sept. 5 (AP).—An elaborate system of German field defenses—similar to those the allies may encounter later in western Europe—has been laid bare by the Red army's offensive which has taken Kharkov, Taganrog, Belgorod, Orel, and other important points.

Generally speaking, the Nazi defenses consisted of three zones to a depth of 10 to 12½ miles, with intermediary lines intended to absorb the shock of attacks.

Details of the intricate defense system were explained and shown to American and British correspondents today in a visit to this front. While no steel or concrete fortifications were in evidence, the defenses were cleverly constructed and appeared to be a tough nut to crack.

Divided Into Three Zones.

Col. Ivan Vorobiev, staff representative of Gen. Ivan Konevy's steppe army which took Kharkov, said the three zones were divided into a frontal region about 3½ miles deep, a secondary zone 3½ to 5 miles deep and a rear area extending for 2½ to 3 miles.

The frontal region is subdivided into three stretches, each a little over a mile deep, the first containing infantry battalions and mortar batteries, the second regimental reserves, light artillery and heavy mortars, and the third divisional reserves and heavy artillery. The intermediary lines are used for delaying action, Vorobiev said, while the Germans retreat to the secondary and rear zones.

Fire power of all weapons in the various defense zones, he explained, was carefully arranged to cover all approaches to prepared positions, which included barbed wire, trenches, and minefields.

Coördinated Artillery Action.

"The German defenses were prepared over a period of four to five months and present a very serious obstacle," Vorobiev added. "To break thru it is necessary to act by fire on the entire depth defense with coördinated action of artillery, aviation, tanks, and infantry."

A significant point in the Germans' army organization was the practice of discarding regimental and company formations after one of their divisions had been defeated and reassembling the unit in groups of 60 to 65 men and throwing them back into battle, Vorobiev said.

Such a step was taken with the German 39th infantry division which was cut down during the battle of Kharkov from a normal strength of 10,000 or 11,000 men to 600—but still continued to operate.

Failed for Three Reasons.

Vorobiev said the German summer offensive failed for three reasons—first, because it lacked all elements of surprise; two, the attack on the Kursk salient was made along a narrow front, and three, the German air force acted only against the Russian front line without attacking rear areas.

On the other hand, he said, the Russian offensive succeeded because the Red army was able to use reserves on a wide front to break thru with the coöperation of all arms.

The Russians also attributed their success to their own power and not to allied operations of the allies in the west. When we heard the news of the allied landing in Italy a Red army man asked me:

"Is it a land front?"

Reds Await Developments.

They preferred to wait and see how much strength the invasion of Italy would draw from the German armies along the soviet front before deciding whether this was the Russian idea of a second front.

Hitler's beaten armies falling back to the Dneiper and Desna rivers are leaving blackened scenes of devastation resembling an area scourged by locusts.

But they are also leaving behind heaps of their own material and mounds of their own men at points where the Red army is cutting them off and wiping them out by a series of pincer movements.

American material is aiding the Red army in its victorious drive.

STALIN APPROVES CHURCH PLAN TO PICK PATRIARCH

Meets with Orthodox Bishops.

MOSCOW, Sept. 5 (AP).—The soviet state, which has been separated from the church for the 25 years since the revolution, has advanced reconciliation with the old Greek Orthodox institution by approving its call for a congress to elect a patriarch and organize a holy synod.

The announcement, which was printed on the front pages of all Moscow newspapers under a two column heading, said:

"Sept. 4 the chairman of the council of the people's commissars of the U. S. S. R., Comrade J. V. Stalin, received Acting Patriarch Metropolitan Sergei, Leningrad Metropolitan Alexei, and the metropolitan of the Ukraine, Kiev, and Galicia, Nikolai.

Stalin Sympathetic.

"During the reception Metropolitan Sergei informed the chairman of the council of the people's commissars that leading circles of the Greek Orthodox church intend to hold a congress of bishops in the very near future.

"The head of the government, Comrade J. V. Stalin, expressed his sympathy with this decision and said the government would not hinder this in any way.

"The vice chairman of the council of the people's commissars, Comrade V. M. Molotov, was present at the reception."

The announcement represented no formal change in the position of the soviet state constitution, which provides for freedom both for the practice of religion and anti-religious propaganda. It is important, however, as evidence of a rapprochement of the soviet state with the Orthodox church.

Truce Is Confirmed.

The war time truce between the church and state was thus confirmed following numerous indications of a reconciliation.

Authorization for the Orthodox congress meant that the church would now be given full facilities to carry on its work. The news was received joyfully by congregations this morning.

Local soviet authorities were reported assisting in the restoration of churches destroyed by the Germans. Church officials said the invaders had wrecked several hundred.

ALLIED OFFICERS GO INTO GREECE IN SECRET TRIP

LONDON, Sept. 6 [Monday]—(AP).—In one of the most audacious acts of the war, British and Greek staff officers from Cairo have traveled hundreds of miles thru enemy territory for a secret rendezvous at Balkan headquarters of Greek guerrillas. There, it was disclosed today, they conferred with 600 leaders representing more than 50,000 Greek patriots and effected a unified command.

The conference, which lasted three days, established a policy to fit in with the allied middle east command's plans for intensification of sabotage in the axis occupied Balkan country. According to reports reaching here, they also perfected methods to supply arms and other equipment.

Some British, Australian, and New Zealand soldiers are fighting with the guerrillas in the Balkans, it is reported here. Left behind when Greece was overrun in April, 1941, they took to the mountains. Allied governments have estimated there are about 150,000 guerrillas in the Balkans now actively fighting the axis.

MILITARY RULE FAILS TO HALT DANE SABOTAGE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 5 (AP).—Germany, with Denmark under Nazi military dictatorship for a week, has failed to halt sabotage against war production, communication, and transport facilities, the free Danish press bureau reported today.

During the last three days saboteurs have damaged a train carrying German supplies, the Roskilde power station, Frederiksberg telephone conduits and one channel bridge. The Germans relaxed the martial law curfew on Friday but rescinded the action because of the continuation of sabotage.

AUSSIE PLAYS U. S. ANTHEM FOR MRS. ROOSEVELT

Invalid Musician Greets Her in Hospital.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Star Spangled Banner unexpectedly greeted Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today when she visited the orthopedic ward of Melbourne's children's hospital. As she walked into a room for infantile paralysis sufferers, 13-year-old Brian Dean was holding a harmonica in his one usable hand and playing the American national anthem.

Mrs. Roosevelt walked to the boy and stood smiling down at the youngster who has been an invalid for six years. When he hestitated, she asked him to play it again for her. So he started over and played it while four generals, one admiral and numerous other goldbraided officers stood at attention.

Tours American Camps.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who arrived in Melbourne today, was immediately whisked away on a tour of American army camps. Standing on a table in a recreation hall at one camp, Mrs. Roosevelt told the soldiers that the hospitality of Australians to Americans delighted her.

"There is not enough widespread knowledge at home of how our boys in New Zealand and Australia have been taken into homes and treated as guests," she said.

During a press conference Mrs. Roosevelt scotched a woman correspondent's attempt to give her a new title. The reporter addressed her as "Presidentess."

"You mean wife of the President," she chided.

Given Book of Cartoons.

At another camp Mrs. Roosevelt was presented with a bound book of cartoons entitled "Eleanor Is Coming" that changed her smile into a hearty laugh. The artist, Corp. George A. Ward of Philadelphia, Pa., had depicted the excitement caused by the impending visit of the President's wife.

Ward portrayed such scenes as two soldiers on a tiny island, one sitting under a palm tree and the other mowing grass and shouting, "Eleanor's coming." Another showed battle scarred veterans feverishly digging an extra foxhole, while one looked up and remarked, "Eleanor's coming." Others depicted fighting men shining up their medals, and leaving lines of cuties because "Eleanor's coming."

LT. LANNY ROSS OPENS STATION IN SO. PACIFIC

NOUMEA, New Caledonia, Sept. 5 (AP).—Army Lt. Lanny Ross, former radio and film singer, headed the program today at the opening of a new radio station which will be on the air daily to entertain allied forces in the South Pacific area.

Maj. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln delivered the dedicatory speech. Officials of this French island colony and J. A. Carney, South Pacific Red Cross director, also spoke. Donald Baum of Waterloo, Ia., participated in the program.

The station, housed in the Red Cross club, is under direction of two Red Cross workers, Janette McCreery of Merion, Pa., and Estelle Brenner of Daytona Beach, Fla.

SHIP SINKINGS CUT SHARPLY IN 4 MONTH PERIOD

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Effectiveness of anti-submarine warfare in the battle of the Atlantic was shown yesterday by a tabulation of announced ship losses in the western Atlantic for May thru August when 36 allied nations and neutral ships were sunk by U boats, as compared to 295 in the same period last year.

The sharp decline in announced sinkings during months when weather conditions were most favorable to underseas naval warfare pointed up the joint Roosevelt-Churchill statement last month that "offensive operations against axis submarines continue to progress most favorably in all areas."

A comparison of announced allied and neutral ship losses in the western Atlantic follows:

Month—	Yr. 1943.	Yr. 1942.
May	14	73
June	6	97
July	6	80
August	10	45

HONGKONG NAVY BASE SET AFIRE BY YANK BOMBS

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 5 (AP).—American Mitchell bombers and Warhawk fighters, heavily raiding the former British naval base at Hongkong, left many strong fires blazing Thursday in warehouses, gasoline storage tanks and other buildings, Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's headquarters disclosed today.

One Japanese Zero was destroyed and two others probably were destroyed, while the Americans suffered no loss.

Raids on Yangtze river shipping resulted in fires set among wharves at Shihh-weiyao, 60 miles southeast of Hankow, the sinking of two 100 foot oil tankers and damage to others near Ichang, and the damaging of a 100 foot steamer near Wuhsueh, 95 miles southeast of Hankow.

PUERTO RICO'S TEACHERS VOTE 24 HOUR STRIKE

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 5 (AP).—Delegates representing the more than 6,000 members of the Puerto Rican Teachers association voted yesterday to call a 24 hour strike if Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell refuses to call a special session of the insular legislature before Sept. 11 to consider the "school problem." This was a reference to the shortage of teachers which resulted when many left at the beginning of the fall term for better paid jobs. Tugwell told reporters Friday he would not call the legislature because Lulo Munoz Marin, president of the senate, and Rafael Arrillaga, speaker of the house of representatives, were against such a move. The governor announced an emergency "white collar" aid project with more than $2,000,000 designed to raise the lowest teacher salaries and build new classrooms.

6 COMMANDOS IN ITALY TAKE TOO MANY PRISONERS

Destroyer Can't Handle All the Captives.

beach by German dive bombers, and the Commandos split up in small groups to try and do the enemy as much damage as possible.

While we were talking another trooper crept from the brush and joined us. He had become lost from the rest of his group in the hills.

Fight Navy Skirmishes.

The Commandos said they had driven out or captured all the enemy in four small towns, ambushed and wrecked several Italian staff cars, and fought dozens of skirmishes with 50 Germans and more than 100 Italian parachute troops who came into the district in armored cars.

"They were the only really good Italian troops we met, and they really are good," one trooper said. "They chased us a couple of miles but we finally dodged them in the hills."

They said their only food was bread and cheese obtained from friendly Italian peasantry, and were extremely bitter at the Italian parachute troops who had looted and wrecked the home of an aged Italian widow and her daughter who had fed the Commandos three nights before.

As we talked, one Commando destroyed an ammunition cache near a farmhouse, making considerable noise.

Wants His Girl Along.

The major wanted to bring with him 16 selected prisoners, but with his party we could bring only seven.

Further complications arose when the single officer of the lot, a first lieutenant of Parma, a 32 year old veteran of Ethiopia, insisted on bringing his girl friend. She was a cute, but unwashed, little brunette, a Red Cross nurse in army shorts.

Gillott didn't think much of the idea, but the Commandos all said: "Bring her along; she knows how to look out for herself and is a good sport. She volunteered to give us all shaves this morning."

So we brought her off, too.

She identified herself as Rosaria Cotroneo, 22, and said she served at Tripoli and Tobruk for a year before she was captured at Tripoli last year and repatriated five months ago. The girl said she had an uncle and aunt in America.

The Commandos said practically every Italian they met claimed they had relatives in the United States, and all expressed their disappointment that American troops hadn't landed instead of British.

The Italian troops not selected to go with us are ordered by the major to go up the road west, where we can hear occasional firing, and surrender to the first British party they meet. It is an unforgettable sight, those dejected men dragging back up the beach, rejected by their captors and about to break into tears over it.

Of those chosen to go with us, one twirled his long mustaches and laughed aloud, shouting, "Me civilian, hurray!"

He added that he was the father of 18 children and would like to see his wife in Sicily again soon. He may, for we plan to land the prisoners in Sicily.

Sun Spots Are Blamed for Radio Interference

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—Sun spots caused "much interference" with trans-Atlantic short wave radio reception here late today, officials of National broadcasting chains reported. The inteference started Tuesday and reception has become progressively worse since then, they said. Commenting on a brilliant display of northern lights observed here last night, Charles Oliver Roth, lecturer at the Hayden planetarium, said such displays invariably were associated with the presence of sun spots.

TWO GUNMEN GET $35.

AMG IS ALREADY ACTIVE IN TOWNS TAKEN IN ITALY

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 3 [Delayed]—(AP).—Officials of the allied military government came in with the landing this morning. Among the first signs erected in the little village of Gallico was the "AMG" sign.

This means that there will no longer be a gap between the capture of a town and its administration under the allied military government. The first AMG official to land was a United States army lieutenant. This lieutenant, of Italian extraction, said:

"I have waited for this moment a long time. I found out in Sicily the sort of job we can do and I want to get down to doing it in Italy."

U. S. AND CANADA SET RECIPROCAL V-MAIL RULES

V-mail now may go from the United States to members of the Canadian military forces overseas, under a reciprocal agreement with the dominion government Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday. Similarly, the Canadian Airgraph form may be sent by a resident of Canada to a member of United States army or navy overseas. Such V-mail letters should be sent to Toronto. The address should bear the name, rank, and organization of the addressee and be followed by "Canadian Army Overseas" or "Royal Canadian Air Force Overseas." Canadian residents should address the Airgraph form in care of the postmaster at New York or San Francisco.

Jugo-Slavia Asks Allies to Protect Men in Italy

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 5.—The Jugo-Slav government has formally requested the United States and Britain to incorporate in the Italian surrender terms the condition that Italy must not permit Germany to deport Jugo-Slav prisoners and interned subjects. Representatives say the prisoners "must be kept and turned over to allied force headquarters, which in turn will restore them to his majesty the king, in his capacity as Jugo-Slav military commander in chief."

AMG GIVES SICILY LABOR PROGRAM MINUS FETTERS

All Fascist Workers' Unions Banned.

[By Wireless to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

PALERMO, Sicily, Sept. 4 [Delayed].—The allied military government [AMG] today abolished all Fascist labor and corporative organizations in Sicily. In their place a free labor movement is being substituted.

AMG's labor program which was worked out by Capt. David Morse was agreed upon yesterday afternoon. Lt. Col. Charles Poletti, former governor of New York and now AMG liaison officer, had abolished Fascist labor organizations that morning.

The new program provides for a labor office for each province under a civilian director of labor. The functions of each such office are first, to establish employment offices for the placement of workers; and second, to offer scientific vocational training if required.

Study Wages, Living Costs.

A section of each divisional labor office will make wage and cost of living studies on a monthly basis. An office of conciliation, mediation, and arbitration to which workers will choose their own delegates will be established. If this office fails to agree, the provincial labor office will appoint impartial arbiters. During military occupation no strikes or lockouts are permitted, but it is understood that they will be legalized as soon as possible.

One of the most important details is that the provisions of existing contracts between workers and employers covering hours, wages, and conditions of labor shall be continued for the time being in the interest of stability, but subject to revision based upon investigation conducted by the provincial labor office.

Retains Committee Control.

Thus the allied military government has abandoned its original idea of trying to foist American or British labor principles upon the Sicilians. Instead, it is retaining some of the best features of the Fascist setup and is making it possible for a resumption of the syndical movement [that is, of control thru a committee] which has been the basis of Italian labor relations since the beginning of this century.

3D BOMBER RAID IN THREE NIGHTS HITS GERMANY

Radios All Over Europe Are Silenced.

LONDON, Sept. 6 [Monday]—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers blasted at targets in Germany last night for the third successive night in a swift follow-up to daylight attacks by both American and British bombers on axis communications and air-fields in the low countries.

There was no immediate indication of the specific objectives of the over-night attack, but it apparently was carried out by a very strong force, for residents on the British south-east coast reported they had heard high-flying bombers overhead for more than two hours.

A virtually complete radio black-out over the continent hinted the operations were wide in scope. Soon after the bombers set out, the Calais and Cologne radios left the air, followed by Berlin, Toulouse, Vichy, Lyons, Breslau, Prague, Budapest, and Vienna.

U. S. Planes Over Belgium.

United States 8th air force Marauders raked the freight yards in Ghent, Belguim, yesterday and a war bulletin said "good results were observed."

Later in the day, R. A. F. Bostons streaked across the lower end of the North sea and attacked air fields at Woensdrecht, a Netherlands sea coast town on the west Scheldt five miles north of the Belgian border. Both the Belgian and the Netherlands attacks were covered and escorted by R. A. F., dominion, and allied Spitfires.

British heavy bombers laid mines in enemy waters and naval aircraft operating with the fighter command damaged three enemy E-boats in the English channel.

Altho the German air force sent up many fighters to challenge the allied raiders, the Nazis failed to knock down a single bomber last night or today, it was announced.

In yesterday's operations the Marauders destroyed three enemy fighters and escorting Spitfires shot down three more.

Nazis Admit Heavy Loss.

The air ministry announcement did not identify the Ruhr and Rhineland targets of the Saturday night raiders. The German war bulletin said an air attack on an unspecified town in occupied territory caused "considerable losses" among civilians and destruction of buildings.

"I saw the bombs of the lead ship hit squarely on the tracks," said 2d Lt. Charles J. Filipak Jr., of 1368 South Kedvale avenue, Chicago, co-pilot of one plane in the Ghent raid. "It looked to me like accurate bombing."

Tech. Sgt. Edward H. Kahl, of Elgin, Ill., tail gunner of "Black Magic," reported shooting down one ME-109.

Possum Caught

Eugene O'Boyle with possum.

A rustling in the trees at Chase avenue and the North Western railroad tracks attracted the attention of four boys yesterday. They investigated, then one, Eugene O'Boyle, 15 years old, 7316 North Honore street, grabbed at a furry little creature. It was a baby possum. The animal was taken to the home of another of the boys, James Hunt, 14, of 7319 North Wolcott avenue, for temporary safekeeping. The other boys were George Hunt, 18, brother of James, and Jerry Bugler, 14, of 1827 Chase avenue.

FIFTH 'BIG INCH' BREAK CAUSES FIRE ON CREEK

Lansdale, Pa., Sept. 5 (AP).—An extension of the "Big Inch" pipeline, leading from Phoenixville, Pa., to Bayonne, N. J., broke for the fifth time today, and a resultant oil fire on the surface of Skippack creek destroyed more than 100 trees.

Firemen from six towns erected two earth dams to impound the oil which flowed into the creek and extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

Because the line was temporarily out of service, a greater loss of oil was prevented. The line was closed a week ago for tests of repairs of the four previous breaks, and oil that leaked out today was left in the pipe when the pumps stopped.

The Bayonne extension is built with welded beams and joints, while "Big Inch" proper, which ends at Phoenixville, is constructed of seamless pipe. The first oil reached the east coast thru "Big Inch" early last month.

Western Springs Fair to Feature War Gardens

Village organizations of Western Springs made final arrangements yesterday for a two day village fair scheduled to open Saturday at McClure school. The fair will feature displays of fresh fruits and vegetables, flowers, and canned home grown produce, arranged in the school gymnasium. Special endeavors have been made to attract displays by amateur war gardeners. Mrs. A. W. Jones is fair chairman.

WOMEN BANDITS GET $4.

Two Negro women, armed with knives, held up Philip Albanese, 273 Nuttall road, Riverside, at 17th street and Wabash avenue, and took $4 early yesterday, Albanese told police.

FOREIGN POLICY GROUP VISIONS JAPAN CRACKUP

Expects People's Docility to Turn Into Fury.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5 (AP).—The Foreign Policy association says "Japan may crack" internally when her people and soldiers finally realize they are being herded down the road to their first national defeat.

The association, a privately funded research group, incorporated these observations today into a study of Japanese history, economics, and psychology:

"It seems unwise and unhistorical to assume that the morale of the Japanese is unbreakable, unless we believe that they are fundamentally different from all other peoples and, even under the severest strain, are not subject to the common patterns of human behavior."

May Seek to Save Skins.

"Altho Japan's rulers have hitherto composed their differences thru a policy of overseas expansion, serious disagreements may arise on the eve of defeat.

"Despite the general docility of the Japanese peasants, they are capable of great violence.

"If the assaults of the united nations and the demands of the Japanese people are sufficiently compelling, the imperial household and the burocracy may support peace moves in an effort to save their own skins."

The association reported indications of internal discontent in Japan, viewing as especially significant "the recent ban on public assemblies not specifically arranged thru the official propaganda agency."

Considering the possibility of a collapse of Japanese morale, the survey had this to say:

"The unwillingness so far of any significant number of Japanese to surrender on the battlefield is the result of several concrete conditions: powerful indoctrination against surrender, Japan's succession of victories over a period of years, and the fact that recent fighting in the southwest Pacific and the Aleutians has involved not mass armies but comparatively small bodies of men.

"Man Power Waning."

"If large Japanese armies—not picked troops—suffer major defeats, the old imperatives are likely to lose force, especially since in the later stages of the war man power will be drawn increasingly from sources that are inferior both in physical stamina and indoctrination.

"Japan has never fought a war on the present scale—all its previous wars were against single, relatively weak opponents like Manchu China and Czarist Russia—nor has it ever been beaten.

"What will the situation be after Tokio and other cities have endured mass bombings and after Japan's forces have been steadily pressed back by superior arms."

WAR IN GUINEA IS JUST ONE CLIMB AFTER ANOTHER

Chicagoan on Hilltops for Thirty Days.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES NEAR SALAMAUA, New Guinea, Aug. 29 [Delayed].—We pushed our way up a zigzag trail on Roosevelt ridge, whose once green trees now were transformed into jagged stumps by the merciless artillery fire which dug the stubborn Jap warriors from their holes.

Then we went over a crest and down a winding trail on the far side and into a valley, following a route used until recently exclusively by the Japs, whose yellow signal wire still runs beside it, but now is used to splice our wire. We could have been a picnic party enjoying the coolness of the woods on a torrid day except for our rifles.

Halfway to a native village in a dot of an inlet, now occupied by our troops, we were met by 2d Lt. Norman Kirt, of Oconto, Wis., who had been instructed to direct us to another ridge paralleling Roosevelt ridge, newly occupied by the Yanks.

"You're Expendables."

We told Kirt the composition of our party—a newspaper man and four artillery men—and he made a brief but cheerful comment.

"All expendable," he said.

We reached a path branching to the left and began climbing a ridge. Just like all the climbs, this was heartbreaking terrain—nearly straight up. It took a perspiring hour and a half during which we must have rested at least 20 times.

Not long after the climb began, Jap mortars and artillery shells were dropping into the valley we had just left, the whine of shells overhead annoying the artillery men mightily, especially Lt. Gordon Sitton of Carleton, Ore., until allied artillery began thundering a reply.

Illinois Reunion.

During a conversation of one bunch of soldiers half way, a man regarded my New Zealand hat in a puzzled fashion, turned to another and said, "He doesn't talk like an Aussie."

"I'm from Chicago," I replied.

He grinned with delight. "I'm from Decatur, Illinois," he said. So I shook hands with Pvt. 1st Class Leland Bone, 26 years old, formerly of the Decatur Cartage company.

On top of the ridge we found Capt. Garlyn Munkres, a former dry cleaner from Forest Grove, Ore., Lt. York Ratliff, from Llano, Tex., and Lt. Dick Coughlin from Galena, Ill. Ratliff took us to the front perimeter, where we sat and watched the Jap held hillside, now a mass of churned up red clay, perhaps 300 yards across the deep draw.

Japs Save Ammunition.

One of the mysteries of this campaign is the fact the Japs permit the Yanks to stroll along the skyline and sit in plain view and rarely snipe at them, tho occasionally they use their machine guns and drop mortar and artillery shells. One view is that the Japs are under orders to fight to strictly holding war and to conserve ammunition.

Seated in a covered foxhole in the front row was Pvt. Walter Stelter, 23 years old, of 3716 Magnolia avenue, Chicago, a former bookkeeper. He thought he had nailed at least one Nip during the morning show. He said he had been on one hilltop or another in all but six of 30 days.

There was an outburst of firing 100 yards back down the trail, and a few moments later I learned that sharpshooting Coughlin had just chalked up his fifth Jap, the luckless Nip who thought he was concealed in the shadows at 400 yards range learning his mistake too late. Thru glasses I made out what seemed to be a pair of motionless legs of a man lying face down.

Fashions Map of Clay.

We started down—Sitton, 1st Sgt. Richard Rutledge of Cascade, Idaho, Sgt. Francis Shrock of Browning, Mo., Pvt. Waldemar Haussler of Holbrook, Neb., and I, but paused to listen to Sgt. Lewis Daniels of Deltaville, Va., describe the previous day's patrol to Capt. Munkres, who fashioned a rough relief map in red clay in his foxhole to clarify Daniels' story.

Daniels, his outfit's mess sergeant, was one of the best scouts. He caught 20 Japs at one post crawling from a tunnel and hoping to get a shot at two other Yanks firing automatic weapons Daniels had left. The Nips seemingly did not hear the repeated crack of Daniels' Springfield rifle, because of the clatter of the automatic weapons.

Daniels, who got 20 shots at perhaps 20 to 25 yards range, said:

"I saw this plan and thought it looked to be a nice one for the Japs. Then I saw a bush moving. So I said to myself, 'That damn bush ain't got no business moving.' Then I fired and that damn bush just keeled over."

Daniels yelled to the others to take cover and meanwhile kept firing as the Japs, thoroly camouflaged with branches on all parts of their clothing, kept crawling into view. I asked how many "bushes" he surely hit and his reply was: "Well, they all eight fell or bent."

Munkres estimated his outfit had killed 30 and wounded 20 Japs at a cost of three Yanks slightly wounded in the last three days.

We continued down the hill, pausing while the artillerymen dropped on their bellies and aided the infantry firing at a rifle concentration on top another portion of the ridge. This was the first chance the artillerymen had to get a glimpse of the enemy they had been firing at from long range for more than a month.

You never saw such happy fellows. All, including Sitton, would have stayed to help the infantry a couple days if they were their own masters.

Shooting

Two Negroes were being sought by Wabash avenue police yesterday in connection with the shooting Saturday night of a State street car conductor, Carl Smith, 48 years old, 3045 Washington boulevard. Smith was recovering from his wounds yesterday in the Chicago hospital.

Smith's car was stopped at 56th and State streets to take on passengers when a Negro, 35 or 40 years old and 5 feet 6 inches tall, put his foot on the platform step and started to curse Smith.

When Smith protested, the Negro tried to pull the conductor off the car. As Smith resisted, the Negro drew a revolver, shot Smith at point blank range, and fled. The bullet hit Smith in the right hand and cut across the abdomen. The wound was described as superficial.

According to the account given Police Lt. Thomas O'Donnell, the shooting followed a dispute between Smith and another Negro at 77th and State street, two and a half miles south of the scene of the shooting.

WILLKIE'S IDEAS CAST ASIDE AT G. O. P. CONCLAVE

Leaders to Demand U. S. Retain Sovereignty.

views on international coöperation to preserve peace. The statement proved to be an excerpt from the New York Republican state platform of 1942, which he said he had written. The pronouncement follows:

"Out of the suffering and horror of this war there must rise, with God's help, the foundation of a lasting peace, a peace which will give to all peoples of the world the right to live and worship as they please without fear of persecution, and to minorities the fullest protection of inalienable rights as free human beings.

"To that end the United States must be prepared to undertake new obligations and responsibilities in the community of nations. We must coöperate with other nations to promote the wider international exchange of goods and services, to broaden access to raw materials, to achieve monetary and economic stability, and thus discourage the growth of rampant nationalism and its spawn, economic and military aggression."

When the New York governor was asked to clarify his use of the term "rampant nationalism," he said it applied to the Nazis.

Limitation Conceded.

Asked if a military alliance with Great Britain would not involve a surrender of American sovereignty, Dewey conceded that it would at least limit our freedom of action.

"The minute you make an agreement with another nation on any matter you surrender at once some of your freedom of action" he said. "Trade agreements are an example. But you don't reject them just because they cut down your freedom of action."

He wouldn't call it a surrender of sovereignty.

"If the United States should enter into a treaty of non-aggression and defense no one would suggest that we had surrendered our sovereignty," he added.

Wants Senate's Consent.

Of course, he went on, no one is so brazen as to suggest that we would enter into a military alliance with Great Britain or any other agreement without the consent of the senate.

He agreed that in a military alliance an attack on our ally would require us to go to war, but he added that if our ally should do the attacking, "that would be a horse of a different blanket."

Dewey characterized as "long overdue" the decision of Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill to fight Japan as vigorously as they do Hitler. He remarked that everybody is hoping that Russia goes to war with Japan, that thereby the United States may get access to the Siberian bases.

Of equal importance with foreign policy the governor rated domestic questions, notably fiscal policy, rationing, production of goods, and the relations of the federal and state governments "which are steadily degenerating."

Insists He's Not Candidate.

Dewey laughed off quizzing on the 1944 nomination for president, indicating that he has not changed his position that he is not a candidate and forbids any movement to draft him. He agreed that there is much merit in the limitation of the presidential tenure to a single term of six years, a proposal revived yesterday by Gov. Bricker. He would go farther and propose that a president should have one term and then become a life member of the senate, the vice president a life member of the house. Moreover, he thought we some day will adopt the British system and choose cabinet members from congress to take advantage of knowledge of government which cabinet members selected from private life lack.

Asked his view on the fourth term, Dewey replied that "two terms are all any man can stand without getting the idea he owns the government, if not the country."

Plenty of Local Issues.

As to Republican prospects for 1944 he regards them excellent "unless the administration does a better job than it has done so far. I'm afraid it's too old a dog to learn new tricks. It has had ten years and has not begun to do a good job yet."

Many members of the council coming from the grass roots express surprise at the prominence being given to the question of post-war foreign policy compared to domestic issues.

"A lot of people," said Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, "seem to be running around and into foreign parts looking for issues when there are plenty of them right here at home."

"Of course," he said, "the mothers and fathers and wives of our fighting men and everybody else are determined that there shall not be another war. They expect the United States to do its part in international efforts to prevent the recurrence of war. Just how this object is to be accomplished is a matter for careful deliberation. It will take time to work out the solution.

"Completely overshadowing this question of foreign policy are domestic questions.

"The Roosevelt administration talks of continuing the regimentation and rationing after the war. Why, the people are never going to stand for any foreign or domestic policies that require continuation of rationing after peace. On every side at home I found myself being asked: 'When are you going to give me back my farm? When are you going to give me back my business?'

"We cannot impose the system of free enterprise and free government upon every nation. The best way is to make free enterprise work at home and then other people will emulate our example.

"I have sensed the greatest resurgence of belief in the system of private enterprise. As the people view it, the war is going well on the fighting front, for which they give the credit to the general and admirals, not the New Deal. They know that their boys are splendid fighters. And they know that it is the system of American private enterprise that has outproduced the world on the home front despite the inefficiency of the New Deal politicians."

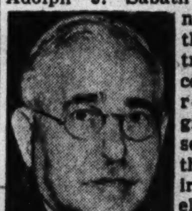
Sabath Bill Seeks to Give Ballot to Civilian Overseas

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Rep. A. J. Sabath.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—Rep. Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.] announced today that he will introduce a bill in congress when it reconvenes to give civilians serving overseas the right to vote in the coming elections.

His bill would be in the form of an amendment to the soldier vote act, but goes so far as to rewrite the law in three important respects. His amendments would provide for:

1. A V-mail ballot for the men and women in military service overseas.

2. A similar ballot for civilians overseas.

3. A special absentee ballot for soldiers in the United States.

Commanders Made Responsible.

Sabath's bill directs that commanding officers of various military units have the responsibility of distributing ballots and information about the election and candidates. They would largely be responsible for the conduct of the election.

The bill, as prepared, would have the war and navy departments distribute postcards carrying a form request for an absentee ballot to every soldier, sailor, marine, WAC, WAVE, etc., in the United States.

Upon receipt of the postcard, the secretary of state of each state would mail to the soldier voter a ballot containing the title of each office to be voted for, the name, address, and party of each candidate, and the political subdivision each will represent, and blank spaces for the names of any other persons for whom the soldier desires to vote.

Lucas Backs a Bill.

Another bill proposing a V-mail ballot is expected to be introduced in the senate by Theodore Green [D., R. I.], chairman of the senate elections committee. The bill was prepared in conjunction with Sen. Scott Lucas [D., Ill.]. The V-mail ballot will be opposed by officers in the army postal service on the grounds that the secrecy of the ballot would be impaired during V-mail transmission.

GLOBE THINKERS GIVEN REBUKE IN G. O. P. POLL

Willkie and Stassen Put at Bottom of List.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Internationalists within the Republican party have been dealt a stinging rebuke by delegates to the 1940 G. O. P. national convention, it was shown yesterday by final figures in the poll conducted by James S. Kemper on potential candidates for the 1944 Presidential campaign.

Wendell L. Willkie and Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, Willkie's floor manager at the 1940 convention, were together at the bottom of the list showing the composite choice of the delegates. The figures in the following composite list are based upon the total vote for each man for first, second, and third choice:

	Per cent.
Dewey	28.52
Bricker	19.44
Taft	10.61
MacArthur	10.10
Willkie	9.72
Stassen	5.24

Thus the two leading internationalists together polled 14.96 per cent—less than one-sixth of the votes. [For practicability in tabulating the returns, the Kemper lists include only the first six possible aspirants, ignoring the scattered votes.]

Willkie Judged Poorest Candidate.

At the same time, Willkie retained his hold on the title of "poorest candidate." In this category, he received the votes of 57.98 per cent of the delegates. The complete list follows:

	Per cent.
Willkie	57.98
Hoover	11.70
Landon	9.58
Bricker	5.32
Taft	4.26
Vandenberg	3.72

Willkie's percentage as "poorest candidate" was more than five times that of former President Hoover. It also indicated failure of Willkie partisans to build him up. Even his trip around the world in a government plane, which brought him much publicity, seems to have been ineffective so far as the delegates are concerned.

Willkie's report of his trip, "One World," despite its sale even over drug store counters, has caused G. O. P. leaders in Illinois to refer to him as "One Whirl."

Dewey Leads in All Sections.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York came thru the Kemper poll with leads in all three designations—first, second, and third choice. These lists follow:

FIRST CHOICE.

	Per cent.
Dewey	35.52
Bricker	21.38
Willkie	17.59
MacArthur	7.93
Taft	5.52
Hoover	4.14

SECOND CHOICE.

	Per cent.
Dewey	29.50
Bricker	19.16
MacArthur	15.71
Willkie	6.52
Hoover	4.98

THIRD CHOICE.

	Per cent.
Dewey	18.62
Taft	17.75
Bricker	17.32
Stassen	9.96
Vandenberg	7.79
Warren	7.36

Not a single delegate voted Dewey the "poorest candidate" until the last day's mail brought in such a vote from the agricultural belt because of Dewey's speech criticizing some farmers for delaying the sale of corn for better prices.

All 48 States Polled.

All 48 states were heard from in the voting. Last week 43 had been represented, and the week before, 37. Southern states were laggard in their return of the questionnaires.

Mr. Kemper, a prominent insurance company executive who had the poll results tabulated by expert accountants, summed up the attitudes expressed in hundreds of letters accompanying the ballots:

"All the way thru, the theme from Maine to California and from Florida to Washington is: 'The Republic must be saved and the things that have made America great—particularly freedom of opportunity—must be safeguarded for the boys who are fighting to suppress the antithesis of free government.'"

Churchill Thanks Chiang for Anniversary Message

LONDON, Sept. 6 [Monday]—(AP).—Prime Minister Churchill sent a note of thanks today to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek for the Chinese leader's message on Britain's fourth war anniversary. "Tho the battle still will be long and hard," Churchill said, "we can now look forward more confidently than ever before to victory and the making of a new world, towards the establishment of which your great and dauntless country has made an unforgettable contribution."

BIG CROWDS SEE RODEO ACTS IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

Near capacity audiences yesterday afternoon and last night attended the first two performances of a two day rodeo and thrill show staged in Soldiers' field by the Cook county council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to raise money for cigarets for service men in the war zones.

There will be performances today at 2:30 and 8 p. m. The cast of the show, produced at a cost of $40,000, includes 200 horses, 200 cowboys, cowgirls, clowns, and circus performers, and 30 Brahma bulls and wild steers.

Harry L. Warner, 1203 South 15th avenue, Maywood, commander of the V. F. W. council, said that proceeds from the rodeo should enable the council to send a carton of cigarets to every fighting man whose name and APO number is presented. Smaller quantities have been sent to Cook county soldiers, sailors, and marines for six months, he said.

In addition to the traditional rodeo acts of bronco busting, steer wrestling and roping contests, the show had several aerial acts and a group of clowns.

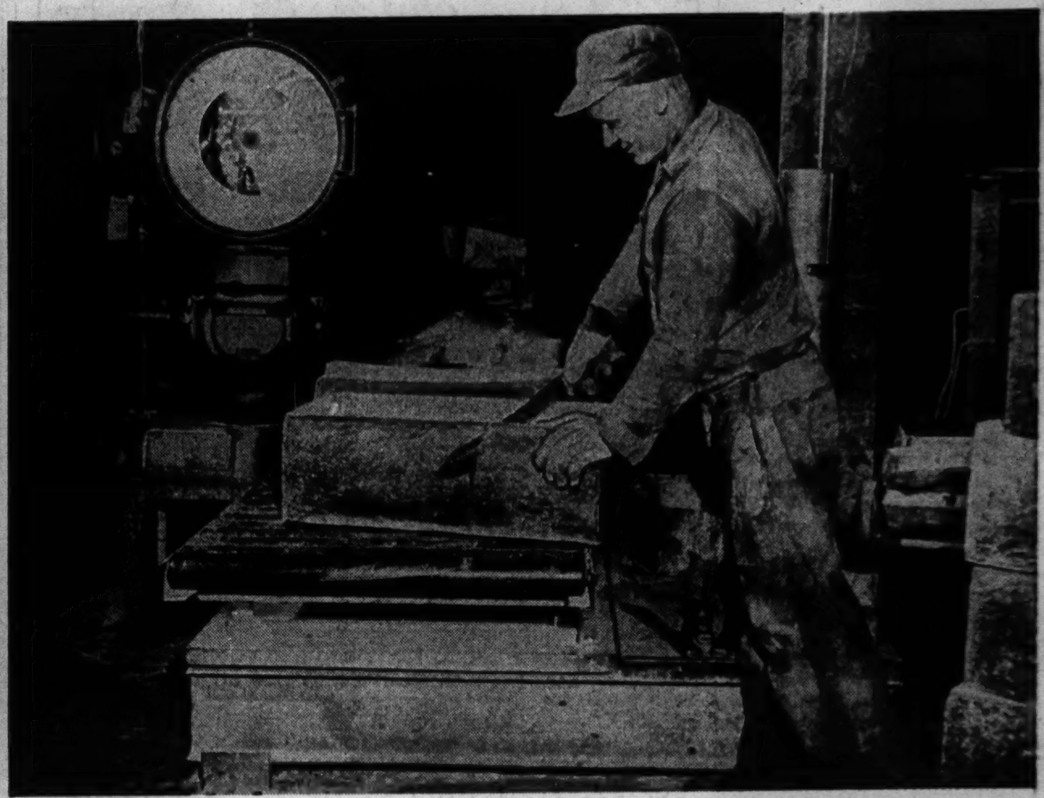
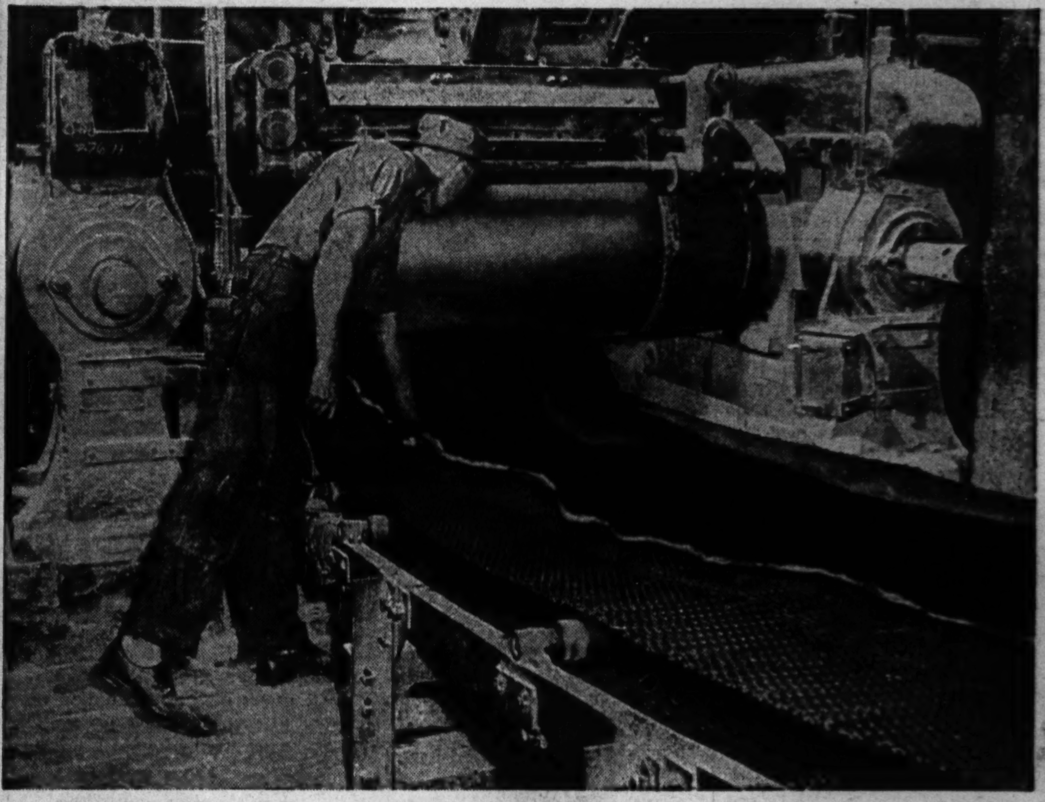
HOW TRIB-BUNA TIRES ARE MADE

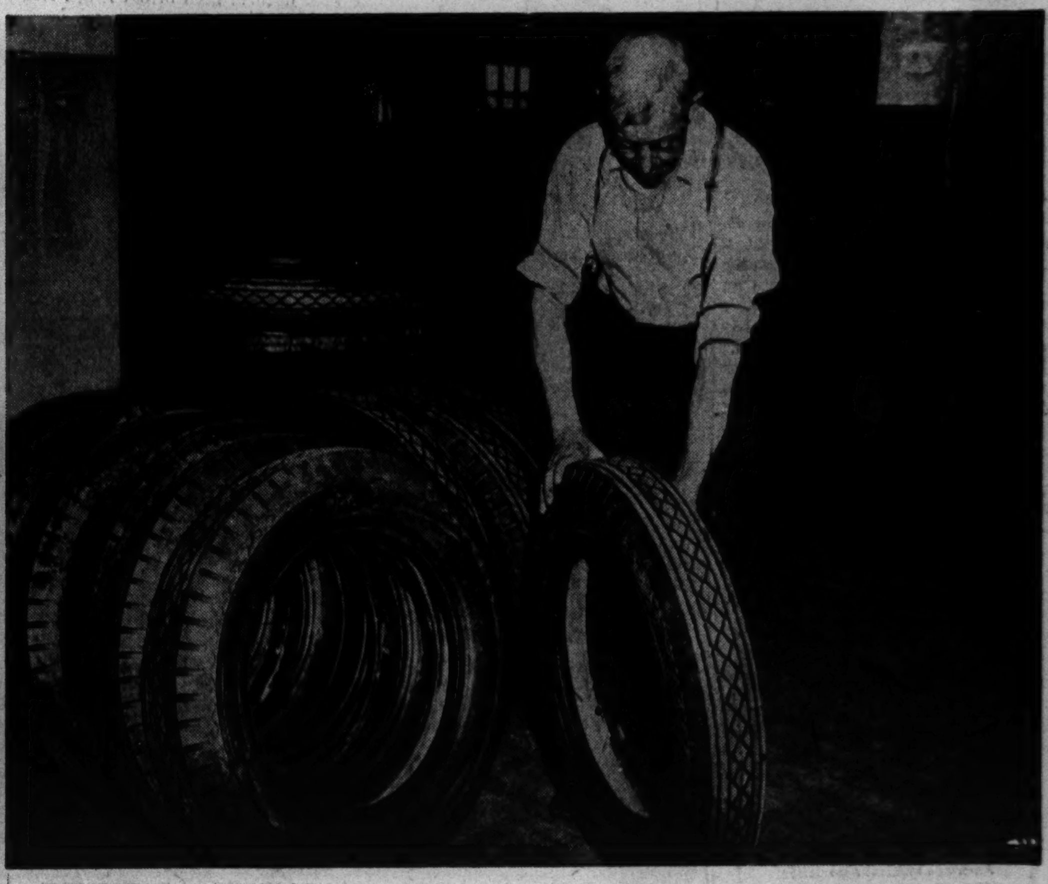


A worker trimming a 100 pound block of Trib-Buna rubber in the Goodyear Tire & Rubber plant in Akron before it is placed in a mixer and compounded into tire stock. Alcohol for manufacture of Trib-Buna rubber is obtained from waste sulphite liquor at Tribune owned paper mill in Ontario.



Trib-Buna leaving the mixer after initial compounding. It is extruded in long strips which travel next thru a cooling bath before being chopped off into slabs in the Akron plant.

This freshly built tire is being placed on a machine which inserts the curing tube and compresses the sidewalls into the approximate shape of a tire before it is placed in curing mold in the Goodyear factory.



Trib-Buna tires cured and ready for inspection. They are being stacked at the factory. Hal Foust, automobile editor of the Tribune, is making an extensive tour in an automobile equipped with Trib-Buna tires to test their wearing qualities.

PREDICTS POLIO DECLINE DUE IN WAKE OF PEAK

City Has 22 New Cases in 24 Hour Period.

Chicago current poliomyelitis outbreak "will begin to decrease in the weeks to come," Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday in listing 150 new cases during the week ending last Saturday. The total for the week of Aug. 28 was 136, he said.

The city board of health announced 22 new cases and two deaths in the 24 hours ending at 9 a. m. yesterday. For the county, Dr. E. A. Piszczek, health director, reported five new cases, one death up to midnight, Sept. 4. The total, city and county, is now 599 by official count, the death total 59, a 10 per cent fatality record that health officers say has been maintained thruout the 1943 course of the disease.

Trend of Disease Described.

In describing the trend of the disease Dr. Bundesen said: "The total of 150 cases [reported last week] is an all time high for any one week in Chicago, but as predicted this increase was expected. The cases since the outbreak started total 467 with 46 deaths. From all indications last week's total of 150 represents the peak of the epidemic and next week should find a slightly fewer number of cases reported, if the trend follows that of previous outbreaks of 1917 and 1937."

School to Open Tomorrow.

City and parochial schools will open tomorrow with an expected enrollment of 560,000 pupils, health officers declaring infantile paralysis cases wane when schools claim the attention of children. The board of health pointed out that school teachers, pupils, and all food handlers who have been exposed to the disease must remain in 21 day quarantine, under state law.

Jobless Aurora Children Barred from City Buses

W. H. Abell, war transportation director in Aurora, ruled yesterday that school children not holding part time jobs must stay off Aurora buses between 4:30 and 6 p. m.

Friend of the YANKS

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

M. C. C. writes: "I am 28 years old and have had four years of sales experience and two years of production experience in a plant manufacturing heavy machinery. I have a degree from a school of business administration. Do you know if I might qualify for a commission?"

ANSWER: Your statements indicate you might qualify for a commission in the navy as a production analyzer. The navy needs men 27 years of age and over to analyze production methods and check the progress of products manufactured under navy contract to insure scheduled delivery. In addition to men with your type of experience, those who have a degree in electrical or mechanical engineering who have had four years of experience in industrial sales work or two years of actual production experience may qualify. Candidates should be in good physical condition.

R. A. B. writes: "I have a United States veteran's converted insurance policy which I took out in 1921. Are the dividends on this policy taxable under the income tax law?"

ANSWER: Dividends and proceeds from maturing government endowment insurance contracts under the World war veteran's act and all other acts relating to veterans are not subject to federal income tax. This applies also to standard insurance contracts issued by the government in conversion of war risk term insurance originally issued under the legislation mentioned above and similar laws.

H. M. asks: "Can the nearest of kin wear the Purple Heart which was awarded posthumously? I see pictures in the paper from time to time showing some one being awarded the decoration."

ANSWER—The Purple Heart decoration and pertinent emblems awarded to a Yank posthumously may not be worn by the next of kin or by the person who receives it on behalf of the deceased Yank.

S. M. K. asks: "It it proper to display in a church or other public place a service flag with silver stars for the men on overseas duty? Can we place a star in our flag for a girl who recently joined the student nurses?"

ANSWER: Silver stars are unauthorized and have no significance. A star should not be put on a service flag for the lady who has joined the student nurses. We have a fully descriptive, illustrated article on "Service Flags" which tells for whom the flag or star may be displayed and the rules and regulations governing the displayal of the flag. We will send this article upon request if a self-addressed stamped envelope is included.

M. P. writes: "I am a disabled veteran of World War I. How much money could I earn without having my compensation taken away?"

ANSWER: Earn as much money as you can. Any earnings you may have will not affect eligibility for disability compensation in any way—even if you earn a million dollars.

PEACE FROM MEN OF GOOD WILL.

It should be quite transparent that any group of nationals possessing the attributes of character needed to make them honest and capable of administering world affairs in any one of the federations proposed by post-war planners would also be competent within the foreign offices of their own nations to conduct international relations justly without any of the dangerous political mechanisms suggested.

That is to say if you have men of sufficient nobility of nature to run a federation you have men who do not need it. And if the men have not this nobility of motives you merely increase their power for evil by putting them where political expedience, national interest, and individual ambitions will compel them to seek organization for profit rather than for general good.

It is, of course, too simple a thing to say that what the world needs is men of character, and not mechanics. The reformist ideas cannot be so easily satisfied. The moral inventor could not rest on that formula. It would defeat his creative instincts. He must have something on a blueprint, something he can draw up in a book of rules, a visible monument at which he can gaze and call his own.

This form of egotism is one of the baneful influences in world events. It undertakes to substitute a priestly edifice for a moral person. No organization is better than the men who compose it. To imagine that it re-creates their character because it is imposing in its moral pretentions is to invite all the disasters that come from misplaced confidence. There is an idea much thought of by such as advocate it that the world can better itself if it adopts new world political machinery. The creation of these moral machines is gratifying to their creators.

What is ignored is the fact that if they can work it will be because of the character of men working them, who would have done better without them. There is no ill from which the world has suffered which could not have been prevented by a generality of men wishing to avoid the evil. Germany, Italy, and Japan have been governed by men who sought evil as a good. The nations that have suffered from them were governed by men who did not know how to arm themselves in self-protection. They had the resources, but not the will.

The future of the world depends on men and not on arrangements. The arrangements never can be better than the men. If the men are good the arrangements are not necessary. If the men are no good the arrangements can have no effect. Attempts to escape character and popular will by schematic formulas which seem to contain human altruism will fail every time, if the moral qualities of the leaders are not sufficient to make them work. If the leaders are good and if the moral qualities are sufficient the formulas and the mechanism are not needed.

When self-seeking men representing self-seeking nationalities are brought together in a federation the worst instincts of the human race are stimulated. Competition and not coöperation is stimulated.

A PROBLEM FOR LABOR.

The American Federation of Labor is talking to the International Association of Machinists about the return of the latter organization, which has grown during the war boom to a membership of about half a million, to the AFL. The machinists quit the AFL in a jurisdictional row. Their fight was with the carpenters' union, over whose members are to be allowed to install machinery. Aside from its dull legalistic details, it offers an interesting study of the difficulty of holding jurisdictional lines in a world of constantly changing technology.

Once factory buildings were of brick and wood construction. One big steam engine furnished power which was distributed by a complicated series of shafts, pulleys, belts, and rough gears. Millwrights and riggers who fastened hangers to wood beams and lined up the shafts and bearings were skilled carpenters. Today each machine usually has its own source of power, an electric motor, built into it. Operations are vastly more precise and the seating of machines has to be done with much the same accuracy that characterizes their operation.

A war plant in the Chicago area is installing some motors, weighing many tons and delivering many hundreds of horse power, to drive a rolling mill. The shaft of the motor connects directly with a gear reduction unit, and the connection must be lined up within limits of two one-thousandths of an inch. A less precise connection would develop "whip" which could destroy in a few months gears designed to last for decades. That kind of accuracy, obviously, can't be achieved with a level and a carpenter's square. It is an argument for the machinists. Perhaps the carpenters can cite other instances that counter it. That, however, does not alter the circumstance that the old jurisdictional lines are becoming more and more confused.

In many instances jurisdiction today is based on legalistic rather than technical grounds. It is sometimes a question of who gets there first with the membership applications, and sometimes even that doesn't suffice, if another union has a drag with the national labor relations board and can find grounds on which to convince its friends on the board that employes in a specific plant shouldn't be allowed to join a rival union, even if they want to.

Even in the AFL, jurisdiction is becoming more and more confused. The CIO has operated almost from its beginning largely on the principle that the member belonged to whoever saw him first. John L. Lewis has set an all-time high with his district 50, which claims jurisdiction over anybody in the United States who doesn't mine coal.

Jurisdictional quarrels are not only a handicap to the unions, because the public rarely understands them and is always impatient with them, but they are a genuine handicap to the country, because they hamper the trade unionism as one of the devices requisite to the smooth functioning of our capitalistic system. If the labor movement in this country can devise a genuinely workable program for preventing jurisdictional disputes, it will benefit itself and the country fully as much as it would by driving out the gangsters and grafters that prey on too many unions.

THE LEADERSHIP OF A MACHINE AGE.

When the army air show at Tribune Tower closes this evening, its exhibits and those in the previous show staged in coöperation with the army ordnance corps will have been seen by more than three quarters of a million people.

In the many years in which THE TRIBUNE has sponsored different spectacles in the public interest, it has never sponsored any that has had so long a duration, attracted such attendance, or given us greater satisfaction than have these twin shows. Their success has been the result of keen coöperation by the army. Its leaders know they are doing a good job and naturally are anxious that the public should know about it.

The exhibits showed parents and wives of our soldiers that their sons and husbands are going into battle with the finest weapons found in the world today. They showed the bond buyers of Chicagoland that they are getting their money's worth for the many billions spent on these weapons. We are proud to have helped drive home these two lessons.

To those of us who slipped away from our duties whenever the opportunity was afforded to visit the show, two of the most interesting exhibits were moving about the place under their own power. One was the young soldiers, most of them enlisted men, who explained the weapons with such evidence of sound training and intelligence. The other was the youngsters of 10 and 12, who obviously knew so much more about it than their elders.

Napoleon undertook to slur the British people when he referred to them as a nation of shopkeepers, an appellation that lost its sting in the light of a history that included the gentlemen adventurers of the Hudson's Bay and East India companies. In that same sense we can admit being a nation of mechanics. Machinery comes as naturally to the youth of America as does the sea to the youth of Norway or the land to the children of the great plains of eastern Europe.

Because the use, invention and development of machinery is an ingrained trait of Americans, we can produce weapons far beyond the comprehension of the gentlemen in old school ties on the boards of British corporations, just as we produce soldiers and generals whose comprehension of those machines makes easy to them the tactics based on them, which are beyond the capacity of old school tie generals accustomed to the hunting field but not the factories.

Knowing this, America should insist upon leadership in a war based on the machine. Machinery is republican. It is immaterial who runs it, but its successful operation depends upon its being understood by every one in the army, not by a few quickly trained specialists. Such a condition is possible only in an army drawn from a homogeneous society. It is possible with the Canadians and Australians, who, in this respect, are more like us than they are like the people of their motherland. It is difficult in a nation with an archaic social system in which those who understand machinery are barred from authority and those who take authority as their hereditary privileges are barred by their own social prejudice from familiarizing themselves with the mechanical world in which they live.

An understanding of the machine and its uses is not, of course, the only requisite for world leadership, but it is a prerequisite for the fighting and direction of a modern war. We must react vigorously to the Roosevelt-Stimson-Willkie theory that Americans are social and political inferiors and therefore bound to accept dominance by the British aristocracy. This is our age and the survival of both ourselves and the British depends upon acceptance of our leadership.

FOR THE MEN OF BATAAN.

[Rocky Mountain News.]

It has taken a tragically long time to make arrangements with Japan, but at last a cargo of relief supplies is to be delivered to American prisoners in the Philippines and elsewhere in the orient.

The supplies, paid for by the army, navy, Red Cross, and several organizations of the prisoners' relatives, will be carried on the diplomatic exchange ship Gripsholm which is to take some Japanese citizens home from this country and bring back 1,500 Americans.

Recently, the first mail from Americans imprisoned by Japan has been filtering thru to relatives. It is expected that mail from America for the prisoners will be carried on the Gripsholm along with medicine, food, clothing, cigarets, and other comforts that this samaritan ship will carry.

Everybody who remembers Bataan and Wake and Guam prays that the Gripsholm's cargo reaches its addressees, and that other cargoes may follow.

In these days beef is tough to get along without. We could have eliminated the last four words.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

OLD LABOR DAY CUSTOMS.

Labor day became a national holiday in June, 1894; therefore this is the 50th in its history. During its first decade it was marked by trade union parades and little else. Citizens with no appetites for nonmilitary parades, and they were numerous, stayed at home and did nothing but rest. There were, and are, no special feastings, no traditional menus for this day of relaxation.

Newspaper cartoonists, however, immediately developed a tradition. They marked the day with complimentary sketches in which the laboring man was always represented as a husky toiler at ease in his working clothes, and invariably wearing a curious square cap.

The square cap is still in use in graphic art as the crown of labor. It is a safe bet that most of today's first pages all over the country will be embellished with this symbol. A very small percentage of the nation's population, however, has ever seen a working man in such headgear. Whence came the symbol?

To find the square caps in real life you must gain entrance to the pressrooms of newspapers and other large printing establishments. That is where they were invented. They are made of old newspapers, folded in a way that is a secret of the craft. Their purpose is to keep ink out of the hair. On escorted tours thru THE TRIBUNE'S plant such caps are given away as souvenirs for the young folks.

When the motor car age arrived, the Labor day week-end became Everyfamily's last chance for an outing in the country and a fling at the pleasures of the dying summer. The beauties of nature along the roadsides, however, were almost invisible because of the dust clouds churned up by the millions of wheels. Ah, those good old days when the highways couldn't hold the traffic; when there was Labor day wreckage in every ditch, and when the returning picnickers made jams miles long on the diagonal roads fanning into Chicago, especially on Milwaukee avenue! Disabled cars were as common as shattered tanks on the Russian front.

Labor day also used to be the traditional date for the opening of the Chicago theatrical season. Alas, poor Yorick!

BARBARA LEE.

We were so sure she'd be a boy,
We had her named for Bill.
We thought we didn't want a girl—
We think so still.
But every time we start to wrap
Her up to send her back,
She purses up that rosebud mouth
All ready for a smack.
Her dimple dances in and out.
She registers surprise
That we would ever think to trade
That pair of big blue eyes
For eyes that might not be so sweet.
We get in deep and deeper.
Why did we think we'd want a boy?
I guess we'll have to keep her!

The Duke Speaks of Cholly.

Hon. Linemaster: Tha day after tha lunshun party we gave in honor of "Cholly" [Charles Alden Peterson], Aug. 31, on a/c he's now been admitted to partnership in tha firm of MacArthur, Doolittle and Eisenhower, a bunch of your contributors phoned me an asked me to write to you and say that it was a swell gesture on your part to leave your breakfast ½ finished and join up with us in seeing that "Cholly" was gave a ideal send-off.

Why these palookas pick on me to thank you is easily understood on a/c none of them ever got learned how to spell. Several of these jerks cut out spelling classes and took poetry instead. When Dean Clark phoned me he asked if I minded a suggestion. I did, but I'm to darn polite to give him tha "nutz to you salute," so he says that when I thank you I shood say, "It was indeed gracious of you, no end, to lend your August presence." Fer a minute he had me stumped cause I thought it was already Sept. 1.

I wish you cood of got there 5 min. earlier, cause that's when I pulls one of my famous wiseshots a'la, "Folks, I think it wood be most appropriate if we all sang, 'For he's a Cholly good fellow,'" ketch? [Gee, how I laffed.] Why they sat me next to Mrs. Odd-One I dunno. Her topic was that she picked up arthritus [whatever that is] in some joints; all I cood advise was that she shood stay out of those places.

Mr. Collins, did you know that R. E. C. [Bobby Clark Jr.] is gonna join up this month? I asked him what tha delay was an he says that they told him he'd hafta get his teeth fixed, so I guess as soon as he gets them back he'll be on his way. Didja notice tha emblem on C. O. R.'s coat? He's very proud of it an he shood be, it's for giving blood to tha Red-Cross on eight different occasions.

I asked him if he thought they wood take some of mine an he said he didn' think so on a/c if they gave it to a wounded soldier tha chances are he'd die of delirium-tremens. I juss didn' get tha drift. Ennyway, Mr. Collins, your gang really wants to thank you for coming to tha party.

WAR TIME LABOR DAY.

No carefree driving far away this year
To celebrate the rights by labor won
In this great land built up by work and fear
Of God's great justice when the work is done.
As factory smoke ascends and coal trains run,
The harvest tasks go on at busy speed,
All proof we'll finish what we have begun
By sending all our soldier boys will need.
Tho Adam's curse rests heavy now indeed,
A curse has proved a blessing oft as not;
If by our work those now enslaved are freed,
Today's long hours will be quite soon forgot.
Tho Adam lost the fruits of paradise,
We work for that which has a greater price.

PRICKLY HEAT FROM MOIST SKIN.

As a rule, prickly heat will become annoying only when perspiration is profuse. But individuals differ. In fact, with the approach of autumn, symptoms may increase.

When the humidity is high, the air will contain about all the water that it can hold. This means that evaporation from the surface of the body will be extremely slow. Accumulation of sweat may then saturate underclothing and lead to softening of the outer cells. Smarting is observed, particularly where folds of skin contact one another or movements produce friction.

No one is exempt and older children particularly are likely to be affected. In women, the area beneath the breasts should be watched.

The eruption presents itself suddenly as a bright red rash. It is first noted at the bend of the elbow, over the shoulder blades, and across the abdomen. In many instances, the fine reddish dots will spread over the trunk, fading gradually with the coming of cooler weather.

Now and then a severe attack will be followed by the appearance of a crop of boils. This indicates that bacteria have penetrated several of the hair follicles, with resulting inflammation. In such circumstances, it is wise to include a mild antiseptic with the soothing lotion usually employed.

The basis of treatment is cleanliness. Frequent shower baths, with plenty of soap, is our best preventive. If thirst is markedly increased, a substantial quantity of salt or glucose should be added to the menus.

An excellent remedy is the well known calamine lotion. If a drop of carbolic acid is added to each ounce, the mixture will possess enough germ destroying properties to ward off invading bacteria, but the parts must be washed thoroly before the preparation is applied. After it has been allowed to dry on the skin, talcum powder will prove an additional aid against chafing.

With most of us, these episodes will be brief. On the other hand, the smarting, burning sensations may persist if the condition is neglected. Something must be done to allay congestion, which sets the epidermis figuratively on fire. Victims have reported that the use of rubbing alcohol and dusting powder, after the daily scrub, seems to toughen and dry the cuticle—with the rapid disappearance of the rash.

But even this routine will not be permanently effective if the sweat glands continue to pour out their secretions hour after hour. Occasionally, with infants, systemic symptoms will occur with a temperature, fretfulness, and loss of appetite. In this connection, the necessity of changing wet diapers promptly requires no emphasis.

Care must be taken not to confuse the disorder with poison ivy, ringworm, or an industrial toxin. Certain dusts or oils may be responsible for similar blemishes. Furthermore, the volatile material from plants such as nettles may imitate this ailment. We may remind ourselves also that the affliction comes on whenever moisture remains on the skin for a long time.

SAFEGUARDS.

Mrs. J. E. writes: I have been advised to have my baby immunized against certain diseases. Is there any danger attached to the plan or ill effects to be expected?

REPLY.

The benefits so far outweigh the risk that the procedures are recommended. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on vaccination and immunization of infants.

CIRCULATORY.

Mrs. L. E. writes: My 2 year old son has spells in which he gets blue around his mouth and alongside of his nose. What is this?

REPLY.

Cyanosis [blueness] appears whenever the blood receives too little oxygen. There may be a temporary pause in the circulation. Ask the family doctor to investigate.

STREP INFECTION.

T. S. writes: Is chorea a germ disease?

REPLY.

The exact cause is unknown. There are many theories, however. The streptococcus has been blamed, viruses have been indicted, while allergy comes in for its share of criticism. The preponderance of evidence favors streptococcic origin.

FAULTY FOCUSING.

C. B. writes: Will you explain astigmatism?

REPLY.

Defective curvature of the eyeball. In consequence, the rays are not sharply focused upon the retina. Vision is blurred.

Oasis of Calm.

New York, Sept. 5.—The gold-plated edifices of Wall street tower above and encircle it on all sides, but Old Trinity church, squat and blackened by the soot of centuries, remains unscathed and untroubled by the festering thousands who pass it daily intent on transacting the business of this fleeting day, this precious moment, as quickly and as stolidly as possible. Engulfed in the eddy at the foot of Wall street, it alone is calm, peaceful, eternal.

Old Trinity was built long before America won its independence, for, altho twice rebuilt, it first was opened in 1698.

Here, a tall, blackened shaft, dwarfing all near it, is what is known as the martyrs' monument. Its plaque merely states: "Sacred to the memory of those brave and good men who died while imprisoned in this city for their devotion to the cause of American independence," but it specifically commemorates the American soldiers imprisoned on the English ship, Jersey, when the British had control of New York during the American Revolution.

Here, too, are buried John Watts, the last royal recorder of the city of New York [1774-'77], who finally foreswore his royal income for liberty and lived to sit in congress, and Alexander Hamilton and his wife, Eliza. Hamilton's tombstone bears the noble legend:

"The patriot of incorruptible integrity,
The soldier of proved valour,
The statesman of consummate wisdom,
Whose talents and virtues will be Admired by grateful posterity
Long after this marble shall have moulded into dust."

Nearby lies a hero of the War of 1812, Capt. James Lawrence, of whom many know that he commanded the sloop-of-war Hornet and uttered that immortal battle cry: "Tell the men to fire faster and not to give up the ship. Fight her till she sinks." Few know what his tombstone relates, that the ship he sank was "The Britannick Majesty's Peacock."

But the two we lingered over longest were the graves of Mary Wragg, who died Oct. 29, 1827, age 11 years, and that of William Bradford, printer, who left it May 23, 1752, at the age of 92.

Little Mary's inscription bears a warning to all men:

"Her days whear short as ye winter sun
From dust she came
To heaven returned.

"This child sleeping lies
In earth where she was lent.
More glorious shall hereafter rise
Tho not more innocent.

"When the archangel's trumps shall blow
And souls and bodies join
What crowds will wish their lives below
Had been as short as thine."

William Bradford was born in Leicestershire, Old England, in 1660. His tombstone states:

"Reader, reflect how soon you'll quit this stage
You'll find out few attain to such an age.
Life's full of pain
Lo, here's a place of rest.
Prepare to meet your God.
Then you are blest."

Most of the monuments are old and worn, but along about 1914 some of the Astors decided too much attention had been given the patriots and too little to the pillars of wealth. They then erected what is now Old Trinity's most imposing edifice. This marble wonder is about the size of the Sheridan equestrian statue in Chicago, and has Adam and Eve and what seem to be many sacred figures crawling up a central shaft to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. William Waldorf Astor. It is, candidly, an anachronism, but until Pearl Harbor floodlights made it even more so. Then the church sexton, a dear little man who knows and cherishes every monument like other men know their pipes, switched off the lights. "And that," he says happily, "was the beginning of the dim-out in New York."

COAL OPERATORS' PROBLEM.

Four Mile, Ky., Aug. 26.—The bituminous coal commission died a natural death Aug. 24 and now Mr. Ickes has come out with directives and orders asking the coal operators to furnish him with the same data that the coal commission asked for, and asking all coal companies to do the same work that his statistical bureaus did, only then the government footed the bill amounting to several million dollars each year.

To do what he has asked would mean a small company loading, say, 800 tons of coal per day, would have to hire one to three extra men to furnish them with this information, most of which is worthless and foolish. Where are the extra office men coming from to do this work?

CHAS. H. HOSKINS.

WHAT CLASS 1-C[H] IS.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 1.—So that Mrs. Stephany Ciszewski, whose note appeared in the Voice of the People of Aug. 29 may not continue to have the idea that her fighting brother overseas has received a "limited service" classification, I shall appreciate your publishing the fact that Class 1-C[H] is given to a man who is in the armed forces and who is between the ages of 38 and 44 inclusive.

Consequently, Mrs. Ciszewski's remark, "This shows how the local board employes keep track of the draftees," is not only incorrect, but also unfair to the selective service board clerks who generally work long hours under conditions that are sometimes quite trying.

PAUL G. ARMSTRONG,
State Director, Selective Service System.

FORMULA.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25.—I am fully and firmly convinced, upon investigation, that the New Deal not only did not invent charity, good works, and love of my neighbor, but that these virtues did exist prior to 1932, and further, that self-respect, personal initiative, self-reliance, freedom from want, and freedom from fear, together with the more abundant life, are only the natural and normal rewards accruing to any individual willing to pay the price to attain them.

That price is thrift, sobriety, a reasonable respect, and evasion of the seven deadly sins, plus hard, intelligent work. A little dash of rugged individualism and acquisitiveness creates the joy of accomplishment, keeps us out of debt and worry and gives our families a constantly growing and better standard of living, which is to say, that only herein is the much desired "American way of life."

W. L. BERNARD.

SOUTHERN SENTIMENT.

Springfield, Tenn., Sept. 3.—The people of the middle west owe THE TRIBUNE a unanimous vote of thanks for the yeoman service you are rendering them.

Altho we southerners are generally thought of as being Democrats we are far from it. We are anti-New Deal Democrats and Republicans.

NORMAN B. ANDERSEN.

THEY STILL HAVE TO NOMINATE WILLKIE.

Geneva, Ill., Aug. 12.—International bankers believe that for a period of 10 years after this war, England should control the banking and commerce of the world, but that after that period the United States will gradually take over.

Willkie and Roosevelt are controled by the same clique of international bankers.

Roosevelt knows the next congress will have a Republican majority.

Roosevelt rightfully assumes that Willkie will be better able to control a Republican congress than he, Roosevelt, could.

Willkie adherents are in a position to force the holding of the Republican convention before the Democratic.

Roosevelt will assist Willkie in obtaining the Republican nomination.

Willkie will obtain the Republican nomination.

If Willkie is nominated by the Republicans, Roosevelt will not run for the Democratic nomination and will dictate the nomination of one who is certain to be defeated.

Willkie will be elected.

Roosevelt will head the united nations' board.

Roosevelt will dictate to Willkie. Willkie will do his bidding and use his influence as best he can with Congress.

Both Roosevelt and Willkie will have satisfied their personal ambitions; the internationalists will have won their point; the bankers will have accomplished their objectives; England will again rule the world, and the United States will be the loser.

COLD CAMPSITE.

Humboldt, Ia., Sept. 3.—One of the latest plans of New Dealers is the selection of a prison camp near Algona, Ia., one of the coldest spots in Iowa. Last winter during oil rationing, Algona was one of the northern towns in Iowa allowed more oil for heating, because it was known as a cold area. A site for the camp should have been selected in the southern states, where the prisoners could live in tents, or cheaply constructed barracks, which would not require much heat.

SALES TAX ON SECOND HAND CAR.

Chicago, Aug. 30 [Legal Friend of the People.]—On Aug. 18 we purchased a used car. The cost was $279 plus $5.58 sales tax. We paid $100 and the balance was financed. Since making the purchase we have been told it is illegal to charge sales tax on a second hand car. Is this so?

S. R.

The fact that goods are second hand or even that they have been the subject of taxable sales does not exempt a dealer from the sales tax. Under rule 15, as applied to sales made before Dec. 1, 1938, goods acquired by the dealer as "trade-ins" were exempt on resale, but under revised rule 15, effective after Dec. 1, 1938, the sale of the trade-in property carries the same tax liability as the sale of any other new or second hand property.

2 WOMEN, GIRL ATTACKED BY SEX CRIMINALS

Attacks on two women factory workers, one of them the wife of a soldier, and the attempted rape of a 17 year old girl by a sailor she met in a bus station were being investigated yesterday by police.

Henry Windhave, 48 years old, 5061 South Winchester avenue, was arrested by New City police and identified by one of the women, a divorcee 35 years, as one of two men who invited her into a car at 47th street and Ashland avenue at 12 o'clock Saturday night, then drove to the country and attacked her. Windhave denied her charges.

The soldier's wife, 25 years old, employed on a late shift as an inspector in an airplane factory, was returning home early yesterday when a blond man, about 30 years old, attacked her in a vacant lot at 929 Cullom avenue, she told Town Hall police. The third victim told police the sailor took her to a show, bought her a lunch, then attempted to attack her in Lincoln park.

EXPECT 150,000 AT HOLY NAME HOUR SERVICES

The Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, in a radio address yesterday over station W-G-N, said the objectives of the Holy Name Hour services in Soldiers' field next Sunday night are threefold. They are, he said, prayers for peace thru the victory of our arms, the safety of loved ones in service, and the strength to bear the hardships of war.

It is expected that 150,000 persons will attend the services which will begin at 7 p. m. From reports of the 421 parishes in the Chicago archdiocese, it was announced that there are approximately 112,484 Catholic men from the Chicago area in service.

A flag with a huge gold star will be unfurled during the services. It will represent 614 Catholic men from Chicago who have given their lives or who have been reported missing in action. A new service flag 8 feet by 12 feet in size will be dedicated during the special prayer. It was announced that the religious celebration will consist of special devotions to Mary, Queen of the Most Holy Rosary, and the pageantry will include the formation of a living Rosary on the field by 2,000 high school girls.

Advice Today: Foster Child's Fearlessness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Does it sound contradictory to say, one minute, that the price of your young child's safety is your eternal vigilance, and the next, that you must make it your business to promote fearlessness in him? But they are not really two contradictory statements.

It stands to reason that a young child cannot recognize the hazards of many things he does. So it is our business to be vigilant for his protection. But it also stands to reason that our caution need not take a form which makes him timid, and inclined to draw back from the normal physical venturesomeness of his age.

This is a subject I've written about only a few times before—this fostering of a child's fearlessness. It is such a temptation to a solicitous mother to cry out, "Look out! You'll fall! Be careful!" Yet it is a temptation we should resist where the chances taken are reasonable ones, and those means by which a child's muscular skill and experience and independence can develop. That a child should not be exposed to real danger or injury is, of course, taken for granted.

An interesting letter with the father the guilty person this time follows:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have a boy of 19 months who is big and smart for his age. But always when my husband is at home and the child does little daring things his father shouts: 'Richard! Don't, you may fall!' And to me he says: 'He may fall and break his back, or slip and break a leg, or something else equally dangerous.'

"I feel that a child must learn to take care of himself, and be independent at an early age. Am I wrong? Or do I always have to lead my boy by the hand? I do watch him carefully, but feel that freedom is worth gold."

This mother, careful, loving but also wise, has the right idea. In this case and in a surprisingly large number of others it's father who is overly cautious about his child.

Thruout the rest of the war period, we're going to be sitting on a see-saw of food supply. At times we'll have almost a glut of certain kinds of foods; at other times these same foods may be extremely scarce.

At present we have plenty of vegetables, because our gardens are yielding their fresh produce, and this is the season for homegrown crops. Next winter fresh vegetables probably will be rare, and canned ones high in point value because of short supply. So it behooves us to can, brine or dry every bit of garden produce which can't be stored for the winter, or eaten fresh. Vegetables which can't be taken care of immediately should be given away or sold, so that some one will be able to use them. In view of the outlook for small food supplies next winter, it would be criminal to let any crop spoil in the garden.

Coffee, right now, is on the high end of the see-saw. In fact, it looks as tho coffee may sit up there for the duration. Warehouses are full of this precious commodity which was rationed so strictly a few weeks back.

There's comfort in coffee. It affords a pleasant, mild stimulation which most persons need once or twice a day. It wasn't easy for confirmed coffee drinkers to cut down to something like a cup a day. Most of them did it cheerfully, however. Now they're being rewarded for having been good sports. They can have their three or four cups again, at breakfast or dinner! All of us can have as much coffee as we want.

Now we can make all those coffee flavored desserts we'd almost forgotten. Remember how good is coffee jelly?

Coffee Jelly.
[Serves four.]

1 tablespoon plain gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups hot, strong coffee
⅓ cup sugar

Soak gelatin 5 minutes in cold water. Add salt and coffee and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add sugar. Chill until firm in individual molds. Turn out and serve with soft custard sauce or cream. Sprinkle toasted chopped almonds over the dessert for a fancy touch.

The government has bought the entire supply of dried fruits. But we shan't have to go entirely pruneless, for we're told that as many prunes as we had last year will be released for civilian use. Also there's a prospect of a release of raisins for civilians. Probably many of these raisins will go back to the boys in camp, tucked away in Christmas cookies and fruit cakes.

We shall probably have to wait until after the war for those commercially dried apricots, peaches, pears and apples.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

There is a great need for volunteers, who can teach hobby skills, to serve as instructors for service men, according to Mrs. Elizabeth S. Fitch, director of the volunteer office of the office of civilian defense and council of social agencies. Those who desire to offer their services must be 25 years of age and must have had definite training in teaching hobbies, arts, and crafts.

Volunteer clinic and clerical aids also are needed by a clinic near the loop. Appointments for interviews may be made by telephoning the volunteer office, Wabash 0528. The office is situated at 219 South La Salle street.

A recent announcement in this column that the American women's voluntary services were opening registrations for classes in physical and occupational therapy resulted in the immediate enrollment of the maximum number of students. Classes in many other subjects are under way, however, and persons desiring to enroll should do so now because registrations will close next Friday.

Among the subjects to be covered in the new fall term are: Radio code, home mechanics, business communications, physical fitness, public speaking, conversational Spanish, Portuguese, French, hospital orientation, finger printing and photography.

Because of the large number of inquiries concerning courses, officers of the AWVS said they are unable to take any telephone calls. Applicants are asked to appear in person at headquarters, 160 North La Salle street.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, chairman of the women's division of the war finance committee of Cook county, has announced that the division's plans for active participation in the third war loan drive, to be launched Thursday, are completed.

Preliminary to actual activity in behalf of the new loan, the women working with Mrs. Wolf on the executive committee will meet tomorrow morning at war loan headquarters, 105 West Adams street. Two special classes for bond sale instruction are to be held tomorrow at 2:15 p. m. and 6:15 p. m. in the auditorium at 140 South Dearborn street, and will be conducted by Mrs. Charles E. Peace, chairman of bond instruction.

MRS. ELIZABETH FITCH.

Following the evening meeting the women's division workers will take part in a program to be held in the Civic Opera building at 8 p. m. for all war finance committee workers.

Serving on the executive committee with Mrs. Wolf are Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Donald McPherson, and Mrs. Leo P. Cummings, vice chairmen; Mrs. Benjamin F. Affleck, Mrs. Alva L. Bates, Mrs. Mark C. Bates, Mrs. Forest W. Bills, Mrs. James R. Blair, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. Joseph P. Juric, Mrs. Louis L. Mann, Mrs. Walter Marx, Mrs. Peace, and Mrs. Richard A. Whitney.

On Wednesday at 2:15 p. m., Mrs. Kirk, chairman of the speakers' bureau, will be hostess at a special meeting in her home, 1500 Lake Shore drive, for the 300 members of the bureau. The speaker will be Harold McLain, vice chairman of the third war loan drive.

Mrs. A. P. Hartmann, radio chairman; Mrs. Gerhardt F. Meyne, Mrs. Fred Schaefer, and Mrs. Glenn Frank are Mrs. Kirk's vice chairmen.

Mrs. Fred Carskadon, 826 Ashland avenue, South Bend, Ind.—Since rubber dish drainers are out for the duration, I have taken an old bathing cap, cut it in half inch strips, and wrapped the sides and ends of my antique wire drainer with these strips. No marred sink as a result!

Sally Requests Furniture for Three Families

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A case worker has requested our assistance for Mrs. N., who lives on the northwest side of the city. She is the mother of five minor children. It has been necessary for her to receive public assistance in order to care for them. They own very little furniture, and what they have is extremely worn. The home could be made much more comfortable and attractive if we could locate a rug and living room furniture of any kind.

Mrs. N. has necessarily a great deal of sewing and washing to do in caring for her children. However, she is afflicted with a type of skin trouble which is greatly aggravated by water and soap. If any reader has either a sewing or washing machine, which could be given to her, it would be of great assistance.

Mrs. G., on the north side, the mother of three small children, is also dependent upon a public agency for support and is in need of furniture. She is frail and finds it difficult to do all the family sewing and washing by hand. The floors are old and splintered, and since she has neither rugs nor linoleum, it is very difficult to keep them clean. Living room pieces, floor coverings, and a sewing machine would help to solve a number of her problems.

Mrs. S., on the near north side, is very much in need of a single bed. She is a widow with four children. A public agency is assisting her, but the income it provides barely meets the family's basic needs. Three of the children are now sleeping in one bed.

"Luck of the Devil"

By Elizabeth York Miller

Copyright: 1943: by Elizabeth York Miller

SYNOPSIS: On the beach at Dunkirk, Ronnie Banks leaves a wounded fellow soldier for dead, after robbing him of his note cases. Upon Ronnie's arrival in London he deserts, assumes the flat and identity of Alan Conyers, and engages in a romance with Maria de Santos, wealthy Argentine widow, who lives next door. On a visit to his mother, Ronnie learns the military police are after him, and that Goldie, the wife he has deserted, is repaying his mother the money borrowed for their child's funeral. June Merrill calls to make the acquaintance of her American cousin, Alan Conyers, and invites him for the week-end at Priory cottage. Ronnie is captivated. Maria creates a jealous scene. Ronnie bluffs his lance corporal into believing he is Alan Conyers, and withdraws Alan's money from the bank. At Merrills, he courts June. The real Alan Conyers appears at Priory cottage, his memory gone. The only clue to his identity is the name and address of John Merrill. Returning from Priory cottage, Ronnie sees Maria who has arranged for their early marriage and sailing. Goldie, the new waitress, delivers breakfast to Ronnie and, knowing of his deception, demands 50 pounds. Ronnie leaves Emberley court and takes quarters at an inn near Merrills. June visits the real Alan, who Ronnie claims is an absconding bank clerk from his home town. Ronnie visits Alan at the hospital, tells of his engagement to June, and conveys a false message of farewell from Alan to June. Ronnie acquires the engagement and wedding rings. June decides she won't marry Ronnie. Alan's memory returns and he exposes Ronnie, who escapes. Alan puts detectives on Ronnie's trail. Maria inserts plea for Ronnie's return, in the personal column.

INSTALMENT XXV.

VISITS MOTHER.

When Ronnie got to Victoria station he bought a copy of that morning's paper, and there it was again. This time, however, Ronnie Banks didn't laugh, or even feel inclined to give vent to unkind mirth at Maria de Santo's expense.

If he threw himself on her mercy there was little doubt but that she would protect him. Only now, of course, he hadn't any passport, and that was going to be a nuisance.

He wondered if that fellow, Conyers, had been to Emberley Court. It might be dangerous ground; indeed, it very likely was. Dare he chance his luck and boldly call upon Maria?

His luck. He wasn't going to admit that it had gone back on him . . . unless something had happened to Mum. Goldie, his Bad Angel, might be responsible for this temporary setback, for there was no knowing at all what she had been up to meanwhile.

But before he chanced Emberley Court, he thought he'd be on the safe side and go down to see how Mum was faring, for it was on her he might ultimately have to depend.

His mother looked much better than when he had seen her last. The doctor was giving her some new medicine, she said.

She was pathetically glad to see him, taking his face between her hands and crooning over him in her pleasure.

No, the policemen hadn't been there again; it was only Goldie who had come that day, to pay back some more of the money for the baby's funeral.

Anxiously he questioned her, but Mum was very firm that Goldie hadn't suspected a thing; hadn't the least idea he had been there. So perhaps Goldie's story of how she came to be working at Emberley Court was true.

"You know, my boy, how I never did like Goldie," she began.

"Sure, I know—and you were right about her. She's all-round no good," Ronnie agreed. "I admit I made a big mistake letting her get around me the way she did."

"All the same she's your wife," Mum said. "I always hold that man and wife—once they are married—should stick together, come what may. It was wrong of you to leave her like you did, son."

"What are you getting at, anyway?" he demanded in a sour tone of voice.

Hadn't he troubles enough without Mum preaching at him?

"Don't think I'm criticizing you, my boy——"

"Well, if you ain't, what are you doing?"

"It—it's about Goldie," she said, her voice wavering.

"Next thing, she'll be living here," Ronnie interrupted savagely.

"Listen, son, I somehow don't think she'll come again. But it was only a little later she came, and she seemed ever so cheerful and pleased about something. What's more, she'd come to pay me back the last of the money she owed me."

Ronnie knew well enough how and from whom Goldie had acquired her sudden wealth—from himself, no less, the ruddy little blackmailer.

"And also—" Mum went on—"I hate to tell you, Ronnie, she was all dressed up in new clothes. Regular West End rig-out, she had on. New handbag and all, she had. O, I taxed her with it. And what do you think she said?"

"Haven't the foggiest," said Ronnie, scowling at the end of the cigaret he had lighted.

"She said there was a gentleman, head waiter in a big restaurant and late a widower, as wanted to marry her if she got a divorce from you. I told her what I thought of her, you may be sure, and ordered her out of the house, and she had the rudeness to call me a 'doting old fool'—as I live, Ronnie, those were her very words."

He was furious. Divorce him, indeed! Goldie would have to find him first, or wait three years.

It would be the head waiter at Emberley Court that she'd said had fallen for her, that morning she put over her little bit of blackmail. Ronnie could hardly fail to remember him—a dapper little chap with melancholy eyes. Not at all the sort of chap he would imagine Goldie, herself, would fall for.

To his surprise his devoted and blindly adoring mother took an unexpected tack.

"I guess I am what Goldie called me, after all. Maybe you wouldn't have left her if it hadn't been for me always taking your part. A man should stick by his wife, no matter how they differ. I cried after she left. I felt I was to blame for it all."

"Got to leave you now," he said, "but I might be back sooner than what you think."

"O, Ronnie, my boy!"

"Only don't bank on it. If I'm coming, I'll be back later on tonight. You might leave the door off the catch—just in case."

"I'd rather not do that," Mum objected. "But gladly I'll sit up for you."

"I don't like the idea of you waiting up," he said. "Hang the key of the scullery door on that nail outside the window. I can get over the wall. Good-by, old dear, I'm glad I found you so much better. It's a good sign for me. You're my Good Angel, you know, even if you do lecture me sometimes. You're my bit of luck, Mum, and well do I know it."

He left her shedding tears of joy for his high praise.

But once he was on his way to London, all his fears came crowding back on him.

He was in the tightest hole he had ever been in his life.

Only a miracle assisted by Maria de Santos could get him out of this one.

J. R. Offields' Holiday Gay; Fete Daughter

THE James R. Offield home in Lake Geneva is strictly en fête over the week-end as their daughter, Mrs. Denis F. Sullivan Jr., has arrived from Saranac, N. Y., where she has spent the last two and one-half years, bringing with her the Sullivans' young son, Wrigley. The former Betty Offield's friends are busy congratulating her that her health has so improved that she no longer must stay the year around at the resort. She is now free to travel to New York or Chicago, and expects to come back here for Thanksgiving with her husband and parents.

The Sullivans recently purchased a house in Saranac. The children have been going to school there and enjoy life in the resort. Mrs. Sullivan and young "Wrig" will return east on Wednesday or Thursday, as school starts this week. Mrs. Sullivan will remain in Saranac thru this winter except for occasional trips. Mr. Sullivan has been commuting between Chicago and Saranac.

Lake Geneva Bustling.

Lake Geneva is a busy place this holiday week-end. The final dinner-dance of the season was held Saturday night in the Big Foot Country club, and might have been called a "Hail and Farewell" party because it was the last one at which President and Mrs. Robert Tarrant presided, and also was a welcome for the club's new president, Perry Fisk of De Kalb, and Mrs. Fisk, who is one of the club's champion golfers.

The Lake Geneva Country club served an old fashioned chicken dinner yesterday noon instead of the traditional turkey dinner of other years. Ten million pounds of turkey are being reserved for Tranksgiving dinners for the army and the navy, so the club served chicken, cooked in every known way. The Red Cross will receive the proceeds from a golf tournament at the club.

The Lake Geneva Yacht club canceled its traditional end-of-the-season dinner-dance. Instead its members have been invited to luncheon today by Commodore and Mrs. Philip A. Starck. Yachting trophies will be presented after the meal. The final yacht races will be held this morning.

At the Country Clubs.

Golf tournaments and family buffet suppers will terminate the Labor day week-end today at various Chicago golf clubs. At the Barrington Hills club the 60 members participating in the 10th annual Fruits of Labor tournament each will carry home a prize because the entry fee is an article of the player's own handiwork or something from his garden or farm. Pigs, turkeys, other live stock, a grindstone, and an outdoor oven are some of the objects which have been contributed. The club's three day golf championship will be concluded today.

Play will be in progress today at the Exmoor for the Fullerton and Lorna Doone cups, historic club trophies which have been in existence for 35 years. Today is the final round of the club's 54 hole Labor day derby. Sixty-three members have war gardens on the club grounds, and this busy work spot has become known as a "new 19th hole."

The winner of today's tournament at the Chicago Golf club will have his name inscribed on the Amy Irwin McCormick trophy. Husbands and wives played together yesterday for the Whitewood trophy.

The Knollwood club will serve an informal buffet supper tonight after its golf matches. Last night there was a similar supper, preceded by an exhibition by the Great Lakes Naval Training station team.

A men's golf tournament, a ladies' bridge party, and buffet luncheon and supper are on the calendar today at the Indian Hill club, which is planning a dinner dance for Sept. 25.

Thru the Looking Glass

It seems to us that there are special suggestions that should be valuable to the girls who do work of any kind, whether it is hostessing or serving sandwiches, at the centers where service men are guests. We know the directors of such centers have definite ideas on the subject, and the service men have too.

The G. I. Joe is awfully, awfully tired of looking at men and talking to men, all of whom dress exactly alike, talk pretty much alike, and lead exactly the same kind of lives. When he is away from camp, girls are a treat for his eyes, and the "girlier" they are the happier he is. Femininity in dress, manner, and grooming is what he likes where girls are concerned.

Pretty colors, dainty touches, and a certain amount of fluff are preferable; immaculate grooming is a must. The girl who is going to spend an evening dancing with service men should make it her special duty to use a deodorant and to be immaculately clean. Spilling perfume all over her person is a mistake. She should use a light, airy scent, and use it sparingly. Her nails should be freshly done, her hair shining, and her makeup feminine and smooth rather than flamboyant. Incidentally, her manner should be like her makeup!

She shouldn't chew gum, or carry the cordial manner to the point where it's too hail-fellow-well-met. Her shoes should be pretty and clean, her stocking seams straight or her leg makeup unstreaked.

And tight sweaters are taboo . . . they're vulgar. So are too short skirts. The truly smooth girl, you'll notice, always skips such choices.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bennett Richards of Lake Bluff. After a trip to Cape Cod, Lt. Beemer and his bride will go to Norfolk, Va.

Meet Aralec, New Fabric of Great Promise

BY REA SEEGER.

Of all the derivatives of various natural products that have been announced, the one that is probably of greatest interest to followers of fashion is aralec. Aralec starts out as milk, later skimmed. The casein of this skimmed milk is treated with a formula to produce aralec, which promises to serve an almost unlimited variety of uses as a fabric.

In its 100 per cent form for woven fabrics it is suitable for fine warm interlinings . . . the top ranking clothes designers are using it with enthusiasm. Aralec has toast warmth without bulk, aralec linings are flexible and therefore drape beautifully, and the wearing qualities have been proved by tests for dry cleaning and color fastness. Aralec is the favorite warm fabric of all the designers making quilted and padded lounging robes, negligees, and quilts. It comes in white and spun-dyed black for this quilted and padded merchandise.

The best known coatmakers are using aralec for interlinings, proof of which you can find on the attached labels. Aralec is as warm and wind repellent as all wool of the same weight, its featherweight has uniformity and possesses the insulating qualities and resiliency of natural animal fibers. It's the first man-made fiber to rival wool in warmth.

Blended with rayon or cotton it will become increasingly popular in a wide variety of outer fabrics. It is also being blended with fur and wool, and in fur felt and wool felt for hats for both men and women. It's the wonder fabric of the era.

Miss Alice Wasson was her sister's maid of honor, and Cameron Stewart was his brother's best man. The wedding dinner for the two families at the Windermere East hotel was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Wasson of Crandon avenue. Lt. Stewart, who recently received his wings from the army air forces at Yuma, Cal., is taking his bride to Sacramento, Cal., his new post.

Henry Holt III. of the army air forces, son of Mrs. Ernest Lovering Jr. of Boston, Mass., and of the late Henry Holt Jr. of New York. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Johnston of Chicago.

Miss Suzanne Mary Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thomas Long of Forest Hills Gardens, N. Y., was married last Saturday to Lt. Frederick Seaton Kremer of the army, son of Mrs. J. Hughes Kremer of Lebanon, Tenn., and of the late Frederick M. Kremer of Chicago. The ceremony took place in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's church, New York, with a reception following on the Pierre roof. Lt. and Mrs. Kremer will be at home temporarily in Salina, Kas.

Miss Florence Carper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Carper of Galesburg, Ill., was married Saturday night in Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, to Lt. Col. William Jay Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William John Henry, of Rolla, Mo. United States Army Chaplain Francis J. Daley performed the ceremony. The bride was graduated from Knox college and is a member of the staff of Gorgas hospital.

Among the reception guests at the Beemer-Richards wedding were Miss Marilyn Gooder and Frank M. Dailey, who, despite his youthful appearance, is a major in the army.

10,000 More Women Sought by Red Cross

The Red Cross needs 10,000 women volunteers for the Chicago chapter which yesterday urged them to come to the recruiting offices and find out how they can help.

Special recruitment offices will be opened at convenient points in the city and in suburban areas during "Red Cross enrollment week" opening Sept. 20 in the drive to add 10,000 to the 84,000 women now enrolled. A broad variety of service is available.

"There still are thousands of bridge games and other social affairs that should be dropped," Mrs. James A. Cathcart, chairman of volunteer special services of the Chicago chapter, declared. "I believe that if women generally realized what the Red Cross means to relatives and friends in the military services, nothing would stop them from helping."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Feminine First.

She is the first labor woman to be appointed by the President of the United States to head a federal agency. She has been reappointed by five administrations, three Republican and two Democratic. She is the only woman of high position in Washington who began her American career as a 16 year old immigrant at Ellis Island.

Her name has the simplicity of herself: Mary Anderson, director for 24 years of the women's bureau, United States' department of labor. She was born on a farm in Sweden, the youngest of seven children. Along with her sisters, she took her turn at marketing and family chores and at the spinning wheel while all the children looked forward to the annual visit from the tailor, dressmaker, and shoemaker, who came to outfit the Anderson family. "Quite an event," she recalls.

Progress.

Over the memory of her childhood on the farm in Lidkoping hovers the figure of her mother, who wasn't too burdened with a large family to find time to read, to think, and to share with her children her steadfast belief in equality and progress. So when the 16 year old daughter chose to embark, alone, for America, it was deemed part of progress . . . an ocean to cross . . . a new land and new vision.

The first job this youngest of the Anderson family found in America was housework. Then, after that first year, she took a job in West Pullman stitching shoes, 10 hours a day. No nine to five girl was she—she worked 10 hours a day for 18 years. But during those 18 years her head kept pace with her busy fingers. She learned our language, learned to speak extemporaneously. Due to close contact with other workers and her sympathy with their problems she became a labor organizer and was called to Washington for the Women in Industry service, created during the last war. Later when the Women in Industry service was converted into the permanent women's bureau of the United States department of labor, Miss Anderson was appointed director.

On This Labor Day.

An honorary degree, international appointments, great responsibility have been crowded into the 24 years she has directed the women's bureau—more significant today than ever before. On this Labor day she is thinking of the 17 million women in white collars and blue jeans who "now have proved beyond doubt their ability to replace men in hundreds of occupations never before filled by women." Millions of them carry a double load by holding a war job and caring for homes and families, she says, adding, "Communities must increase their efforts to lighten this load by providing adequate civilian service, such as laundries, restaurants, child care centers, and transportation. On this Labor day I think we well may give a round of applause to the women who work in these service industries for rewards which never will match those of the more glamorous war production jobs. They are truly the good and faithful servants on the home front."

Christian Society Called.

A general meeting of the Women's Christian society of Grace Community church, Lake Bluff, will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the garden of Mrs. Paul Heeren's Lake Bluff home. In case of rain the meeting will be held in the church. Tea will be served.

Central Eleanor Club to Hail 30th Birthday

A candle lighting ceremony for the Central Eleanor club's 30th anniversary will be held at its membership dinner Friday evening in the center at 16 North Wabash avenue. The meeting will open fall activities.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mary Hackman, 2326 Reynolds street, Fort Wayne, Ind.]

THE QUESTION.

Have you profited in any way by doing something yourself that you formerly hired some one else to do?

WHERE ASKED.

The Arcade building, Broadway at Devon avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Gerald Freedman, expediter, 1055 Granville avenue—One Saturday the maid called to say she wouldn't be able to clean my apartment. I think I cleaned it more thoroly myself than she had for weeks. Under a davenport pillow I found one of my pay checks that I had been missing for weeks. That made the day worth while.

Dorothy Beahan, student, 6218 Lakewood avenue—The man who usually washed the windows was unable to come. I started the task myself, climbing up and down the ladder and washing two or three windows a day. My mother paid me regular union wages and I also was pleased to lose three pounds.

Mrs. Lewis H. Bergh, housewife, 232 Elmhurst avenue, Evanston—Ordinarily I wouldn't think of digging up the little plot for our victory garden, but I wanted it done early. Aside from profiting from the outdoor exercise, I unearthed a set of keys to the garage that had been missing for weeks.

Mrs. E. H. Brandsen, housewife, 5211 Glenwood avenue — Until I tried to do it myself I never realized how much could be saved by doing our own interior decorating. We did the work as early as we wanted it done, saved enough money for extra bonds, and had the satisfaction of having done a fine job.

Mrs. L. C. Dana, beauty shop manager, 6334 Magnolia avenue—A new customer came into my beauty shop and asked for a bleach. My assistant was hired for that work, but I was afraid her first consideration was a quick commission, so I did the work myself. The customer was a famous model and returned many times.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 5.—Joy Paige received a fatherly buss from Ronald Colman on the set of Metro's "Kismet" and strolled away to a corner to remark: "You know, there's something in what Beatrice observed about men with beards." And then quoted me "Much Ado About Nothing." "A man without a beard," said Shakespeare's Beatrice, "is less than half a man." And it set me thinking. . . . Goodness me, you wouldn't believe how popular beards are getting! Ronnie's two-way number does double duty, a scraggly mess by day and a beautifully curled and combed charmer nights when he goes stepping as Hafiz the beggar in the character made famous by Otis Skinner. . . . I was impressed by the Paige girl, who's the daughter of Ann and Don Alvarado and therefore Jack Warner's stepdaughter, 18 and as cute as a new red scooter.

Maureen, Too.

I hied me to 20th Century-Fox and made inquiry of Maureen O'Hara who's being made love to in "Buffalo Bill" by a bearded Joel McCrea. Found her quite ecstatic about it all. . . . George Sanders wore whiskers in two of his biggest successes, "Moon and Sixpence" and "The Black Swan," and now Monty Woolley's facial spinach wins substantial [$3,750 a week] recognition. And Greer Garson joins in the chorus of GI—amorous gals who are partial to the silken caress of a hirsute chin. She found out about bearded charms playing opposite Walter Pidgeon in "Madame Curie." Is Monty going to be a Pied Piper in real life and set a new masculine fashion? It leaves me shuddering! . . . Walter Slezak reaps the reward of all our players who ring the bell as horrible heavies and now comes up with a very juicy acting plum, that of a Nazi-hating Viennese surgeon in Pearl Buck's "China Sky" at RKO.

Luck of the Irish.

Robert Ryan moves into his biggest role in "Tender Comrade" and promptly breaks a record by playing 17 love scenes with Ginger Rogers, some of them superheated. Ginger's previous mark in one picture was 15 in "Kitty Foyle," but she split 'em up between Dennis Morgan and James Craig. . . . It's mighty good news that we'll soon be hearing Elsie Janis regularly on the airwaves. . . . Charlie Spivak's dedicating his opening night at the Palladium to the gang he worked with in "Pin-Up girl." Slick Chick Betty Grable will be there grooving it with Harry James. . . . Phil Regan, the warbling ex-cop from a Manhattan beat, goes into a daily radio singing trick next week and will miss out on "Greenwich Village." . . . Heather Angel and Capt. Robert Sinclair may announce their wedding date any day now. . . . Alfred Hitchcock gifted Tallulah Bankhead with a Sealyham puppy which she's named "Hitch."

No Ceiling Here.

Government's put a ceiling on new set construction but said nothing about the price of costumes. So in "Frenchman's Creek" Joan Fontaine is wearing $30,000 worth of clothes including wigs. Author of "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" must have been thinking of London in 1868, says Joan. Skirts, petticoats, etc., worn by the principals and 360 extras in one scene showing a London hot spot with warm babes all over the place—and I do mean warm—were thrown on a set of scales and found to weigh 5,783 pounds. . . . Dinah Shore couldn't act for laughing on the set of Goldwyn's "Up in Arms." The cause was the jitterbugging of 220 pound Comedian Benny Baker. "Reminded me of a walrus tapdancing on a small ice field," said Dinah. . . . Marlene does a spot of self-revelation in a daring dance for "Kismet," accompanying herself in one of those single octave Dietrich warbling numbers cooked up by Herbert Stothart and Harold Arlen. . . . Being the first time she's gone exotic on us since "Destry Rides Again" whipped up a new Dietrich career. Everett Riskin, producer of "Kismet," is sure she's pedaling back to a top glamor spot.

Neutral Language.

Simone Simon's Parisian accent has been obliterated from her speech by Dr. Simon R. Mitchneck, the Columbia university savant, thus rejoicing the soul of Val Lewton, producer of the "Cat People" series. Simone, you'll recall, was killed off in the first of the series, but the fans went for her cattiness in such a big way that in "The Curse of the Cat People" she comes back as a ghost muttering imprecations in a language that's neither French nor fowl. "I feel like a girl out of no man's land," she complained to Val. "Which," he rejoined, "is exactly what we want." . . . Bob Hope's having so much fun in London he radioes he doesn't know when he'll get back for another picture. . . . Louis Armstrong is refusing all offers for film rights to his autobiog, "Swing That Music" because he feels that only he himself can play Louis Armstrong.

Shirley's Ambition.

Shirley Temple is looking away ahead. With David O. Selznick as her tutor, she's learning every angle of the picture business so that when her starring days are over—a long time hence, you may be certain—she'll be prepared to move in as a director-producer. Right now she's cutting her eye teeth on a Red Cross playlet authored by Mary C. McCall Jr., not only directing but playing each part to show the girls how, and rewriting lines.

Legion of Decency Finds New Soviet Film Objectionable

New York, Sept. 5 [Special].—"The City That Stopped Hitler—Heroic Stalingrad," the Russian documentary film, has been classed as "objectionable in part" by the National Legion of Decency, the Roman Catholic reviewing organization, in its appraisal of motion pictures for the week of Sept. 9. In placing the picture in "Class B," the legion said the film "tends to incite hatred of the persons of enemies and to be excessively gruesome."

Good Morning!

Cary Grant is both Romeo and racketeer; Laraine Day, a fascinating Juliet-Becky Sharp-Fanny Brice-singing "My Man" combination.

There's a surprise for you in both the start and finale.

Mr. Grant plays a wily gambler who seeks to dodge the draft by assuming a dead man's [4-F he was] name. . . . He sees a chance to coin a mint by raising funds for a war relief movement in which lovely Dorothy, a social light, is interested. Catch is, tho, he'll be really raising it for Joe.

The enchanting fellow worms himself into the good graces of the patriotic ladies who are managing the charity ball during which he means to operate. He even takes up knitting in his determination to convince them of his whole-hearted interest. . . . Dorothy, who at first has treated him with lively scorn, is finally bowled-over. . . . She goes for Joe hook, line, and sinker—which is not at all what the gentleman had intended. . . .

The adventures of the slicker and the lady I guarantee will intrigue you no end!

Miss Day and Mr. Grant are as ingratiating a team as you'll meet in a month of Sundays. They have the best of support. Note, will you, that beautiful "bit" contributed by Vladimir Sokoloff, who plays the Greek priest.

Action is fast, dialog pat, and direction smart.

See you tomorrow.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

Beginners are taught that they must lead toward kings, not away from them, and, of course, this is sound advice for almost all the cases that are normally encountered. There is, however, nothing rigid about this "rule." Circumstances decidedly alter cases and occasions arise when simple expediency, to say nothing of strategy, demands a reversal of technique. For example:

North, dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

♠ A K
♥ K 6 5 3 2
♦ 9 5 4
♣ K 7 3

WEST
♠ Q 10 9 7 5
♥ A 8 7
♦ K 10 6
♣ J 5

EAST
♠ 4 3 2
♥ Q 10
♦ Q 8 7 2

SOUTH
♠ J 8 6
♥ J 9 4
♦ A J 3
♣ A 9 8 6

This deal occurred in a total point team of four contest and, strange to say, the bidding followed precisely the same lines at both tables.

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

The opening lead was also the same in both rooms, namely the spade ten. In room 1 the play developed as follows: The spade king won and declarer led a club to the ace in order to return a low heart toward dummy's king. West, naturally enough, did not put up the ace and the king held. Now, on a heart return [declarer had no hope for contract without clearing the heart suit] East's queen held the trick, and the spade return removed declarer's last stopper while West still had hearts securely controled with the ace. However declarer maneuvered he was bound to go down at least one trick.

In the other room the South player was not so hide-bound in his observance of so called rules of play. Upon winning the first trick with the spade king he promptly and with extreme nonchalance led a low heart from dummy. If East had been more astute this maneuver would have come to naught, but actually East made the usual second hand low play of the ten spot and from that point on declarer was well on the way to success. He covered the ten with the jack and West regretfully parted with his heart ace. [It would have done him no good to hold it up.] A spade return knocked out the ace but now declarer laid down the heart king, neatly felling East's queen, then cashed the heart nine to extract West's eight. A club was led to the king, the remaining hearts were cashed, and declarer's club ace and diamond ace became the fulfilling tricks.

So far as this declarer's play was concerned it should be observed that the heart lead from dummy instead of toward dummy had nothing to lose. No matter how well the missing heart honors were distributed, declarer would have to concede at least two tricks to establish the suit. The virtue of his play was that while it could not cost him anything, it might [and did!] gain him a great deal. What declarer hoped for was what actually happened, namely that East would be found with the doubleton queen and, thru ignorance or inertia, would neglect to put it up.

Obviously, East was caught napping—there was no reason not to put up the queen second hand—but this did not affect the credit due South.

BEARS CRUSH GIANTS, 42-28; PACKERS WIN

Hutson's Kick Beats Redskins, 23-21.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP).—The powerful Chicago Bears struck precisely thru the air and on the ground today to defeat the New York Giants, 42 to 28, in a National Football league exhibition in Buffalo Civic stadium before 16,970 spectators.

Five Bears scored touchdowns, Gary Famiglietti making two and Harry Clark, Bill Geyer, Connie Mac Berry, and Doug McEnulty sharing the others. Carl Kinschorf scored twice on long runs for the Giants. Emery Nix and Bill Paschal bagged the other Giant touchdowns, Paschal on a brilliant 99 yard run.

Bears March 58 Yards.

The Bears marched 58 yards to score after taking the opening kick-off. Sid Luckman's 40 yard pass to Johnny Siegal set up the touchdown, which Famiglietti scored.

The Giants rallied to take a 14 to 7 lead at the end of the first quarter. Len Younce ran 42 yards after Bill Osmanski fumbled and Nix went over less than one minute later. Kinschorf intercepted Luckman's pass on the Bear 47 and went all the way.

Luckman's pass to Clark was good for 40 yards in the second period, tying the score. Bob Snyder's 41 yard toss set up the next Chicago marker and the half ended with the Bears in front, 21 to 14.

Berry Recovers Fumble.

McEnulty's 42 yard sprint after intercepting Nix's pass helped the Bears add to their margin in the third period and Berry recovered Nix's fumble in midair and dashed 31 yards for the next. Paschal took the fourth period kick-off on the 1 yard line and reeled off his 99 yard run.

McEnulty slanted 25 yards off tackle for another and the Giants closed the scoring when Nix threw to Kinschorf for 44 yards.

The Bears made 12 first downs against the Giants' 5. Lineups:

PACKERS WHIP REDSKINS.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 5 (AP).—Sammy Baugh's passes backfired in the second half today and the Green Bay Packers took a 23 to 21 triumph from the Washington Redskins in a pre-season National Professional league football exhibition before 45,000 in Baltimore stadium.

Don Hutson's 20 yard fourth period field goal was the margin of victory.

The Packers went the length of the field for a touchdown three minutes after the opening kickoff. Pass interference on Hutson gave Green Bay the ball on the six inch line and Ted Fritsch plunged over.

Baugh Ties It.

Baugh started throwing and five minutes later the Redskins tied it at 7 to 7 after a 93 yard drive. The touchdown came on a 22 yard pass from Baugh to Andy Farkas in the end zone.

With a minute of the half left, Farkas went 7 yards on a double reverse to put Washington ahead, 14 to 7.

The Packers snapped back in the third period, scoring on a 60 yard pass play, Tony Canadeo to Andy Uram, but Hutson's attempted placement was blocked after a poor pass from center, and Washington still led, 14 to 13.

Pauline Betz Wins National Tennis Crown

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP).—Pauline Betz of Los Angeles retained her national women's tennis title today with a 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 triumph over Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Cal., runner-up for the second successive year, after the men's tournament had reached the final stage with third-seeded Jack Kramer qualifying to meet seventh-ranked Lt. Joel Hunt tomorrow.

Kramer, a seaman in the United States coast guard, eliminated the highly regarded invader from Ecuador, Francisco Segura, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

Miss Betz Too Powerful.

Except during the second set, the redheaded Los Angeles girl, who is a student at Rollins college in Florida, played too strong and too well developed a game for her opponent. The depth and power of her ground strokes forced Miss Brough into errors in the baseline exchanges and her occasional sallies into the forecourt usually were good for points.

Kramer needed just one set to locate Segura's backhand weakness and three more to run out the match while gaining the men's final.

Jug M'Spaden, Nelson Cling to Golf Lead

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 5 (AP).—The brother combination of Staff Sgt. Jim and Mike Turnesa took over the giant killers' role in the fifth round of the Golden Valley team matches today by posting a best ball of 66—seven strokes under par—to capture three holes from the favorites, Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden. The 126 hole marathon tournament concludes with a 36 hole test tomorrow.

Wood and Demaret dropped two holes to Buck White and Ky Laffoon in the afternoon. The team of Harry Cooper-Pvt. In the WAKE of the NEWS

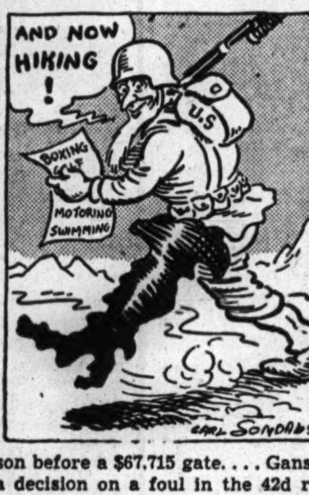
BY ARCH WARD.

NOT that it makes any difference in a world at war, but there was a time when Labor day in the United States was the occasion for great fights between men whose only weapons were padded gloves. . . . This used to be a choice day for big boxing matches. . . . Promoters made it a point to reserve this date for their most magnificent efforts and customers from all points of the compass came to their shrine to bend a reverential knee and buy a ringside seat. . . . For many years, however, promoters have shunned Labor day bouts. . . . The late Tex Rickard learned by experience that people preferred to spend holidays in active recreation, playing golf, motoring, boating, and the other peace time pursuits. . . . "And pretty soon you'll have to add airplaning to that list," he used to say. . . . Two of the greatest lightweights the ring has produced turned in one of the sport's most famous performances on Labor day, 1906, when Joe Gans, Baltimore Negro, successfully defended the championship against Battling Nelson before a $67,715 gate. . . . Gans, who was ahead on points, was awarded a decision on a foul in the 42d round. . . . George Siler of The Tribune staff, who refereed the match, took seven columns to report the contest. . . . Labor day, 1908, brought the dethronement of Stanley Ketchell as middleweight champion. . . . He was knocked out in the 12th round by Billy Papke in Jim Jeffries' arena at Los Angeles. . . . Featherweight Champion Abe Attel went 23 rounds to a draw with Owen Moran, English title holder, the same day in the Mission House at San Francisco. . . . The most important Labor day fight in the Chicago area took place in 1920, when Jack Dempsey, defending his heavyweight crown for the first time, knocked out Billy Miske of St. Paul in the third round in Floyd Fitzsimmons' arena at Benton Harbor, Mich.



Princequillo, 3 year old colt which will continue his campaign for high national ranking in today's $50,000 Washington Park handicap, was foaled in Ireland, son of a French mare and a Belgian stallion. . . . He is owned jointly by a Georgian Prince, Djor Djadze, and a member of a prominent Argentine family, Horatio Luro. . . . He is trained by an American, Dave Englander, who previously was a widely known jockey in South America and a successful trainer in France. . . . Princequillo raced with a $1,500 claiming tag on him at one stage of his career as a juvenile, but now he's near the top, having set a track record in winning the Saratoga Cup at Belmont last Saturday. . . . When Lou Boudreau of the Indians went to the mound against Camp Grant in their recent game his outfielders showed their lack of confidence in his pitching talents by backing up almost out of the county. . . . Reporters and radio broadcasters in California still are announcing that this is Jim Gallagher's last year as general manager of the Cubs, which proves what the '49ers learned some years ago—that California is quite a far piece from the scene of major league affairs.

Sometimes.

Sometimes I think she dreams about the days
In youth's bright fairyland of long ago,
Sometimes she treads the clover-
scented ways
That she and I in childhood used to know
Ere time inscribed us in its book of age
Revealing lonesomeness on every page.

How quickly our short springtime turned to fall
In its maturity of passing years,
Leaving the broken blossoms as a pall
Above youth's disappointments and
Robbing our hearts of musings that were ours—
Young dreams as fresh and fragrant
as the flowers.

Once Upon This Time.

Prince Charming once rode horses white
And rode into my heart,
And I, the treasured princess, loved
Him from the very start,
But he had dragons he must slay,
Before he'd get my hand,
And off he rode, my charming prince,
To some far distant land.

Prince Charming rides a jeep today,
With chevrons on his arm,
In khaki dressed he waves good-by
To city or to farm.
He has a Rising Sun to sink,
A swastika to blight,
And I must stay at home and wait
Until he wins the fight.

My godmother, Columbia,
Waves freedom's magic wand,
While I replenish chest of hope
With periodic bond.
My Uncle Sam will bless us both,
He's such a loyal friend,
When war is won, our fairy tale
Will have a happy end.

CUBS STUMBLE IN 12TH; LOSE TO PIRATES, 5 TO 4

But Nicholson Gets His 22d Homer.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Pirates made 18 hits to eight by the Cubs in yesterday's season final between Pittsburgh and Chicago, but the visitors had to go 12 innings and then cash in on an error by Eddie Stanky to win, 5 to 4. They thus swept the three game series and took the season series, 14 victories to eight.

All the best dramatic props called for the Cubs to win the game for the edification of the 19,999 customers who paid to see the second Sabbath single bill of the season.

But the lads ended their heroics in the seventh, in which Chicago tied the score on Bill Nicholson's 22d homer of the year and Mickey Livingston's second two run homer in two days.

Pinch Batter Hits, Scores.

The windup of the game was strictly on the anti-climax side so far as Cub partisans were concerned. Paul Erickson, who had been doing some great pitching after he entered the scene at the start of the seventh, caused Al Lopez, first batsman in the 12th inning, to fly to Harry Lowrey. Johnny Wyrostek then batted for Bill Brandt, the Pirates' third pitcher and the eventual winner. Wyrostek singled to right.

Pete Coscarart, who had made none of the Pirates' 17 hits up to that point, sent a high bouncer to Stanky. Eddie appeared to have a play on Coscarart, tho he had to jump high into the air for the ball. However, Stanky elected to try to force Wyrostek. Instead, he tossed the ball into the Cubs' bullpen, Wyrostek taking third and Coscarart second. Jim Russell, who had struck out the two previous times he had faced Erickson, ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then flied to Lowrey, Wyrostek scoring the winning run.

Rip Sewell pitched the 12th and had an easy job except for a single by Lou Novikoff.

Pirates Beat Passeau.

Going way back to the first of the game which started 2 hours and 58 minutes before it ended, it may be observed that Claude Passeau, the starting pitcher, had nothing whatsoever, as witness the fact the Pirates made 11 hits off the Mississippian in the 4⅓ innings before he was humanely led away.

Despite this deficiency of the once great Passeau, the Pirates made only three runs off him, one each in the first three innings. A double and two singles failed to net a run off Claude in the fourth but when he continued to pitch base hits in the fifth he was rescued by John Burrows, who, however, got into a jam of his own in the sixth from which the Pirates emerged with their fourth run for a 4 to 0 lead.

The Cubs had to ease a gent off the cozy Cub bench to get their

Sox Take Two from Indians, 2-1 and 4-3

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 5.—The White Sox wrote a happy final chapter today to their season's dealings with the Indians. They stepped out as if they weren't scared of anybody and blasted their year long tormentors in a double header, the dual feat putting them back on the doorstep of the first division. The scores of 2 to 1 and 4 to 3 marked their sixth and seventh successes in their now completed 22 game schedule with the Lou Boudreau Tribe.

In the first argument, Bill Dietrich, given a two run flying start, took a strangle hold on the jinx and never let it up, the victim of Bespectacled Bill's deadly grip being Mel Harder, who gave up only four hits in seven innings. Bill himself didn't allow even one hit for three innings, was pushed around to the extent of four safeties in the next two sessions and then sped thru the last four on a skimpy allotment of two singles.

Maltzberger to the Rescue.

Business was transacted successfully in the second game because Gordon Maltzberger had his hook and ladder department in readiness for an emergency call. Johnny Humphries, after getting a 4 to 0 lead over Allie Reynolds, one of the four Indian pitchers who performed, got off the beam in the fifth, the lapse probably being the result of some hitting and sprinting on his part a few minutes previous.

Maltzberger cleaned up this disturbance with the damage limited to one run, allowed another later when Roy Cullenbine exploded a homer and weathered a daffy ninth in which Jim Webb almost threw the decision at the Indians by committing two errors on one play.

Appling's Average Suffers.

Despite the twin achievements Luke Appling, the league's No. 1 bat wielder, played only a modest part; too modest, in fact, for his hitting welfare. In the first game he didn't get a single until the ninth, his three previous appearances winding up in a strikeout, an easy grounder and a double play tap. In the other game he blacked out completely in four appearances, one of them being a strikeout at the hands of Reynolds, who was withdrawn after the sixth.

The first inning that eventually paid off Dietrich in the opening game started with Wally Moses arching a two bagger close to the line in short right. Ralph Hodgin followed with a long fly to right and Cullenbine obliged by letting it sail over his head for a triple, Moses scoring. Guy Curtright walked and

Three Records Fall

Three Central A. A. U. swim records were broken in the association-sponsored meet at the Idylewood park pool yesterday afternoon.

Dobson Burton, former University of Michigan star now stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, negotiated the men's senior 100 yard free style in :54.5, lowering the mark of :55.1 by Johnny Weissmuller, Illinois A. C. in 1921.

Fern Clasen, Medinah club, set a new mark in the women's junior 440 yard free style with 6:36.3, lowering the record of 6:55.6 set by Sybil Bauer, Illinois A. C. in 1922.

Jerry Kerchner of Great Lakes was timed in 5:09.2 in the 440 yard free style as contrasted with the time of 5:31.8 set by Charles Wilson, Lake Shore A. C. in 1936.

Competition for the team championships will be resumed in an indoor meet at the Medinah club, Sept. 24 at which time the points for the season will be tabulated and the trophies awarded to the various champions.

The summaries:

BY HOWARD BARRY.

A band of rugged route runners will race today in the $50,000 Washington Park handicap, feature event of the final day of the long summer meeting at the Homewood course. Rounders, Thumbs Up, Anticlimax, Princequillo, Marriage, and other highly regarded campaigners will accept the issue over a mile and a quarter distance.

Washington Park has followed the lead of Arlington in dedicating the proceeds of its biggest day to charity. B. F. Lindheimer, executive director of both tracks, has arranged that profits of this afternoon's card of nine races will be turned over to war relief and local welfare organizations. These groups are the Community fund, Chicago Service Men's Center, and the Illinois Veteran services.

Ahead of Last Year.

This will conclude 37 days of racing, the outcome of which had been looked upon with foreboding by many followers of the sport at the start of the season. With war conditions and transportation problems involved, serious complications would have surprised nobody. However, the interest of the sporting public, as measured by attendance and betting handle, has surpassed even the high figures of last season. At the conclusion of 30 days of the meeting on Saturday, the total handle stood at $17,564,041 against $17,154,441 for a corresponding period last season.

In today's handicap, the Louis B. Mayer entry of Thumbs Up and Kings Abbey will be very well fancied by the bettors, together with Hal Price Headley's Anticlimax, Valdina Farm's Rounders and the Boone Hall stable's Princequillo. The Coward and Depuy stable's Marriage has been running a bit dull in recent efforts but he may be back in condition this afternoon. He incurred leg cuts in his last start.

Fifth $50,000 Handicap.

If the track should turn muddy before post time, Rounders' chances would move away up. With George Woolf riding him he probably would be a strong favorite under those conditions.

This will be the fifth $50,000 handicap of the Chicago season. Rounders took the Stars and Stripes and Marriage scored in the Arlington handicap. This event will climax the competition of the horses which are shooting for big money.

Tho nearly all in the overnight field of 15 are quite familiar to Chicago fans, there will be two invaders from the east, Princequillo and Royal Nap. The former had acquired considerable prestige by winning the Saratoga cup and the Saratoga handicap in recent weeks.

Take a dash of wit, a pinch of philosophy and a portion of breezy sport discussion; mix in a bit of clever verse, add a poem of literary merit, top it off with rollicking good humor and pour it into a page of type; multiply it by 64, put it between the covers of the new Wake book and serve it on the news stands Sept. 17.

That's the date of the Wake book's publication, but mail orders are now being received at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street. The book will be 15 cents on the stands, 18 cents by mail. Write today for the

Pirates Beat Cubs in 12th on Error, 5-4

Cubs Go on Homer Spree.

Nicholson opened the seventh with a shot into the right center bleachers, his 106th run batted in. Ival Goodman walked and Lowrey fouled to Al Lopez. Then Livingston drove the ball into the left field bleachers, scoring behind Goodman to tie the score.

The Pirates' only big scoring chance during Erickson's fine performance prior to the finish came in the ninth. Bob Elliott opened with a single. Elbie Fletcher drove one toward the wall and it appeared to be a cinch triple. Elliott was heading into third when Goodman made the finest fielding play of the game to pull down Fletcher's smash. Then Erickson got the rest of the way out of trouble.

The Cubs will wind up their season series with the Cincinnati Reds in a double header this afternoon in Wrigley field. Elmer Riddle and Ray Starr, whom the Cubs knocked out last week in Cincinnati, will pitch for the Reds. Hi Bithorn and Lon Warneke, who won over the Reds last week, will pitch for Chicago. Bithorn will be after his 18th victory, Warneke his fourth.

SENATORS BEAT YANKEES TWICE ON HOME RUNS

Eighth Inning Hits by Roberts, Robertson Win.

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—Washington beat the Yankees in both ends of a double header today, thus spoiling the Yanks' bid to win their 14th consecutive series and equal the major league record set by the Giants 31 years ago. The double triumph gave the Senators a split of the four game series and enabled them to regain second place.

A crowd of 40,242, including 38,458 paid, saw the Senators come from behind to win the opener, 3 to 2, on an eighth inning homer by Rookie Charley Roberts, his first in the big leagues. Sherrard Robertson's three run homer in the eighth inning helped Buck Newsom to a 5 to 1 triumph in the second game, with Buck himself driving in what proved to be the winning run in the fifth.

Vikings Defeat Linneas, 6-1, in Soccer Opener

BY OFFSIDE.

The Vikings, last year's Major Soccer league champions, opened the 1943-'44 season in brilliant fashion yesterday by whipping the Linneas, 6 to 1, in Winnemac park stadium. In a supporting game on yesterday's program, the Schwabens defeated the Spartas, 4 to 3, at California avenue and Roscoe street.

The Linneas, weakened by the failure of three of their regulars to put in an appearance, were no match for the champions, who scored four times in the first half on goals by William List, Nels Brostrom, and Jimmie McDermott, who counted twice. Al Adair scored the loser's only goal on a penalty shot at the start of the second period. List more than offset this with two more tallies.

this brought up Appling's deadly bat, but Luke, after working Harder into a 3 to 2 spot, neglected to swing when a third strike floated past. Tony Cuccinello was thrown out on a slow bounder to Boudreau and this gave Hodgin time to scamper home with what developed into the decisive run.

Dietrich Keeps Impressive Pace.

Dietrich started off as if he were uncomfortable about that two run advantage. He filled the bases with only one out in the first inning, but dodged the possible consequences and then proceeded to avoid additional difficulties until the fifth, which Russ Peters opened with a double to center. Oris Hockett's single sent Peters home, but Dietrich spilled the next three batters with eas and continud at an impressiv pac right up o the finish. He yielded only a pair of hits in the last four innings.

Reynolds was a real bargain counter for the Sox while they were shipping for their first pair of runs in the second game. The second inning got under way with a pass to Cuccinello who stopped at third on Joe Kuhel's double to left center. Webb rolled out to Mike Rocco and while Tom Turner was at bat, Reynolds so far forgot the technicalities of his profession that he committed a balk, Cuccinello being waved home and Kuhel to third. Kuhel scored on Turner's deep fly. Two runs on one hit isn't bad production.

Webb opened the fifth with a single and after one was out Humphries doubled to right, Webb scoring because Cullenbine didn't throw to the plate. Humphries scored later on a double by Hodgin. Then the Indians began pecking at Humphries' offerings. Ray Mack's single in the home fifth and with one out Pinchman Henry Edwards walked. This brought in Fireman Maltzberger but he was nicked for a single by Hockett, Mack scoring.

Two Umpires Disagree.

Maltzberger had two Indians scalped in the ninth when he walked Cullenbine and brought on distress. Jeff Heath singled to send Cullenbine to third and the whole thing should have been concluded on a roller slapped at Webb by Rocco. Webb fumbled and to make matters worse, let go with a throw that sailed into the dugout. Cullenbine scored and so did Heath at the request of Umpire George Pipgras. But Umpire Charley Berry intervened, sent Heath back to third and Rocco to second. Then Boudreau was purposely passed and Curtright gobbled Mack's fly for the final out.

KIEFER RETAINS 330 YARD TITLE IN A. A. U. SWIM

Ford and Rogers Share Honors with Chicagoan.

New London, Conn., Sept. 5 (AP).—The three day national A. A. U. men's swimming meet ended today with a trio of double winners—Alan Ford of Yale, Adolph Kiefer formerly of Chicago and now of the Bainbridge, Md., naval school, and Gene Rogers of Columbia.

The three won their specialties with ease today before 3,000 spectators at Ocean Beach park, Ford successfully defending his 110 yard free style; Kiefer retaining his 330 yard individual medley, and Rogers succeeding the absent Bill Smith of Ohio State as the 880 yard champion.

The big thrill of an otherwise dull meeting—the private battle for individual scoring honors between Ford and Kiefer, the world's top back stroke swimmer, ended in a tie, each tallying 13 points, with Rogers, a naval trainee, three points off.

As expected, Yale ran away with team honors, piling up 58 points. Buffalo A. C. was second with 18, and the United States navy, thanks to Kiefer, followed with 17.

Summaries:

POST-WAR JOBS OFFER PROBLEM, 3 SPEAKERS SAY

Speakers on the University of Chicago Round Table yesterday said that demobilization of service men and women, coupled with the conversion of industry to peace time pursuits, would pose a definite unemployment problem in the period following cessation of the war.

Participating in the discussion were Floyd Reeves, professor in the education department of the University of Chicago; S. H. Nerlove, associate professor in the department, and Ralph Tyler, professor in the school of businss.

The speakers agreed that the combined efforts of private industry and a public works program, with the aid of cushioning devices—such as mustering out pay, unemployment insurance, training and educational programs, old age assistance, and dismissal wages for employés—would be needed to keep unemployment at a minimum.

PARKED AUTO LOOTED.

Robert P. Anderson, 1264 West 72d place, told police yesterday that while his car was parked on the lower level of Wacker drive at Dearborn street thieves broke in and took glassware valued at $20.

LABOR POUNDS HOLIDAY RIVETS IN AXIS CASKET

War Plants Busy Today, Tho Many Celebrate.

RAIN PREDICTED.

Forecaster H. S. Kenny predicted that intermittent rains would be sufficient to halt most outdoor Labor day celebrations. "It won't be a day for picnics," he said.

Labor day this year means just one thing—more labor—to the tens of thousands of men and women in Chicago industries. Altho other thousands of Chicagoans will wind up a three day holiday today at nearby summer cottages or resorts, riveters, welders, and other workers will operate on a "work as usual" schedule to turn out the tanks, guns, and ships needed by the army and navy to bury the axis.

One of the few large celebrations slated for today is the closing of the 41st Annual West Pullman Homecoming and Labor day celebration, a three day fete held in West Pullman park, 123d street and Stewart avenue. Sponsored by the West Pullman Civic club in collaboration with the Chicago park board, the homecoming will include races, contests, baseball games, water fights, and other features. There will be a gas mask and gas chamber demonstration in which the public will be permitted to enter the chamber. A fireworks display will be the grand finale.

Cadets to Get Commissions.

The holiday will hold a special significance for the fifth class of the University of Chicago's Institute of Meteorology, which will be graduated this morning in Rockefeller Memorial chapel, 59th street and Woodlawn avenue.

William A. M. Burden, special aviation assistant to the secretary of commerce, will be the speaker. The cadets will be presented by Maj. William H. Starbuck, commanding officer of the detachment. Commissions will be conferred by Lt. Col. James F. Thompson of the army air forces.

As a result of the holiday the 218 stores, usually open from noon until 9 p. m. on Mondays, will be open during those hours tomorrow. The late hours will be effective this Tuesday only.

Special Programs at Centers.

Special week-end programs have been arranged by Chicago service men's centers. Simultaneously marking the closing of a three day festival and the termination of another season for the Chicago service men's summer center in Lincoln park, thousands of soldiers and sailors, as well as members of the women's services, will gather at the north side center to participate.

More than 6,000 persons attended the 11th annual outing of the Chicago Baseball league held yesterday in Hamilton park. The features included sports and dedication of a service flag representing 594 boys, all members of the Chicago Sports union, of which the league is an affiliate.

The 40th annual schobermesse [harvest festival] of the Rogers Park Luxemburger Brotherhood of America in the Old Limits picnic grove at Crawford and Devon avenue drew a crowd esimated at 6,000 persons. The festival will go on today and proceeds will be used mainly to purchase war bonds.

Milwaukee County Pools Set Record in Safety

AMERICAN LABOR URGED TO SPUR ARMS OUTPUT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5 (AP).—American workingmen today were urged to recognize axis laborers as enemies as personal and deadly as the allied soldier faces in Labor day statements which praised home front forces for a miracle of production and urged them to greater efforts to shorten the war.

Rear Adm. Clark H. Woodward, navy's industrial chief asserted: "The American worker knows man for man he can outproduce, outcreate any axis worker, because the men and women of America are free, and are fighting to remain free."

President Roosevelt said: "To save lives and suffering, our American workers, employers, and farmers will need not only to maintain their production but to increase it. Their record to date has been magnificent."

Philip Murray, president of the CIO said his organization "will not rest on past achievements but will set ever higher goals."

William Green, president of the AFL said: "We realize on this Labor day every war plant is the starting point of direct attack against the enemy."

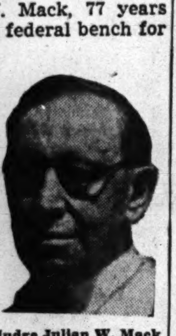
JULIAN W. MACK, RETIRED JUDGE, DIES IN NEW YORK

Was 77; Once Lived and Taught Here.



Judge Julian W. Mack

Judge Julian W. Mack, 77 years old, member of the federal bench for many years until his retirement in 1941 and honorary president of the first world Jewish congress, died early yesterday in New York City after a long period of ill health. Until about three years ago Judge Mack maintained a Chicago home at 3520 Lake Shore drive and had his New York residence at 24 5th avenue.

News of the jurist's death was received in a telephone message by a friend, Lessing Rosenthal, Chicago lawyer, from Judge Mack's daughter, Dr. Ruth Mack Brunswick, who survives with the widow, Mrs. Cecile B. Mack, whom he married in 1940, two years after the death of his first wife, Jessie Fox Mack. The judge began his law practice in the office of Mr. Rosenthal's father, Julius, in 1890.

Became Professor Here.

Judge Mack was born in San Francisco and attended the public schools of Cincinnati, O., but was a resident of Chicago much of his adult life, serving as a professor of law first at Northwestern university and then at the University of Chicago law school. He received his law degree in 1887 at Harvard, where he afterward served several years on the board of overseers.

From 1903 to 1911, Judge Mack was on the bench of the Circuit court of Cook county.

For three years Judge Mack sat in the Juvenile court, and from 1909 to 1911 on the bench of the Appellate court, 1st Illinois district.

In 1911, Judge Mack was appointed by President Taft to the United States Circuit court and was assigned to the short lived United States Commerce court.

In Appeals Courts Since 1913.

Since 1913, he had sat in various Circuits Courts of Appeal, including that of the 7th district in Chicago, and the 2d district in New York, as well as the United States District courts here and in New York.

Judge Mack enjoyed the highest respect of his fellow jurists, among them Justices Learned Hand, Augustus N. Hand, and Thomas W. Swan of the 2d Circuit Court of Appeals, New York. Justice Swan also is a former Chicago lawyer.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, who like Judge Mack is a leader in the Zionist movement and was his close friend, will conduct the funeral services at 10 a. m. tomorrow in New York.

HEART AILMENT AT 79 IS FATAL TO DAVID STRAUS

David Straus, chairman of the board of Straus & Schram, retail furniture and mail order house, died yesterday of a heart ailment in Meyer house of Michael Reese hospital. He was 79 years old, and lived in the Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore drive.

Mr. Straus had been in business in Chicago more than 60 years. He was born in Moscow, Tex., shortly after his father, a Confederate soldier, was killed in action. His family later moved to New York City, where he received his early education. At 18, Mr. Straus settled in Chicago to enter business with his uncle, Simon Straus. Later Harry and Elmer Schram joined the company, and it became Straus & Schram, which now operates four retail furniture stores and a mail order house, all in Chicago.

Mr. Straus was a member of the Standard club and the Ravisloe Country club. He contributed to many philanthropies. He leaves his widow, Estelle, whom he married in 1933. His first wife, Bernice, died in 1929. There were no children. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday in the chapel at 936 East 47th street.

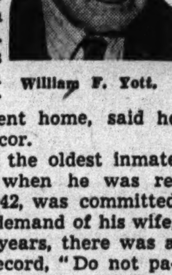
MAN WHOM WIFE KEPT IN ASYLUM 49 YEARS IS DEAD

85, He Was Fighting for $500,000.



William F. Yott.

William F. Yott, who spent 49 years in the Elgin State Hospital for the Insane died last night in the Wallace Unity home at 822 North Lockwood avenue, while two suits for the recovery of his estate were pending in Probate court after a year's litigation. He was 85 years old. Dr. Anna Wallace, director of the convalescent home, said he died without rancor.

Yott, who was the oldest inmate of the hospital when he was released in July, 1942, was committed in 1893 upon the demand of his wife, Eliza. Thru the years, there was a notation in his record, "Do not parole without approval of wife." That approval never came and Mrs. Yott died in September, 1941.

Plot Charged in Suits.

Thomas J. O'Malley Jr., attorney and conservator for Yott, contended in suits filed in Probate court last year that Mrs. Yott had brought about his commitment so that she could have command of his fortune, estimated at more than $500,000. Their daughter, Mrs. Esther Eugenie Whitmore of Lockport, N. Y., was accused of conspiracy to defraud in connection with Yott's continued confinement.

Yott and his father, Francis, were partners in a livery business on the near north side 60 years ago. Yott was a riding master for aristocrats of the period. After Yott was sent to Elgin, his wife became Francis Yott's partner in the enterprises and inherited the estate when the elder Yott died.

O'Malley brought about Yott's release from Elgin in July, 1942. The first suit filed in behalf of the released man was for the dower portion of his wife's estate, approximately $200,000. The suit alleged that Mrs. Whitmore and her mother had removed the cash to New York state illegally.

Entire Estate Sought.

The second suit, started in October, was a claim for the entire estate, $582,715. The suits are still pending. One piece of property has been sold from the estate for $25,000 and $2,500 of the amount, earnest money, is in escrow. The balance will be available January 1, and will be added to Yott's estate.

A son, Frank Yott, a Three Rivers, Mich., attorney, was left out of Mrs. Yott's will and is expected to be a party to further litigation for recovery of the estate.

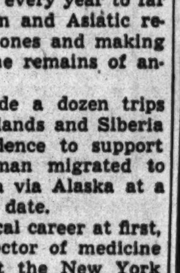
DR. HRDLICKA, NOTED MANKIND AUTHORITY, DIES



Dr. Ales Hrdlicka.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5 [Special].—Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, famous anthropologist, died today at his home after a week's illness. He was 74 years old.

Born in Bohemia, March 29, 1869, Dr. Hrdlicka came to this country at the age of 13 and became one of the world's most noted authorities on mankind's history and development. From 1898 onward, he led expeditions nearly every year to far places in American and Asiatic regions, gathering bones and making plaster casts of the remains of ancient races.

Dr. Hrdicka made a dozen trips to the Aleutian Islands and Siberia in pursuit of evidence to support his theory that man migrated to America from Asia via Alaska at a comparatively late date.

Planning a medical career at first, he received his doctor of medicine degree in 1892 at the New York Eclectic college and two years later was graduated from the New York Homeopathic college. He practiced medicine a short time, but in 1896 he was appointed assistant curator of the division of physical anthropoloy at the National museum of the Smithsonian institution, and in 1910 was made curator of the division.

While on a trip to Europe in 1939, the scientist suffered an attack of heart disease. A recurrence of the disease last week proved fatal. His wife survives. The funeral will be Wednesday.

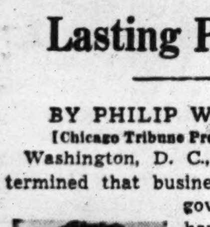
PLANS WORLD CONFERENCE BY TRADE GROUPS

Crawford Asks for Lasting Peace.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—Determined that business as well as government shall have some say about international agreements of the post-war world, American business leaders announced preliminary plans today for an international conference of business men on post-war problems.



F. C. Crawford.

Frederick C. Crawford, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, revealed that he has conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson in an effort to clear the way for calling such a meeting.

Seek Sound Economic Basis.

Number one aim of the conference would be to help prepare a sound economic foundation for a lasting peace. Crawford was the first to suggest that the business men do some post-war planning in a speech before the Canadian Manufacturers' association on June 9.

Last week Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, just back from a trip to England where he conferred with business, labor and government leaders, reported he had made similar proposals there for an international conference.

Crawford said today that when details for the conference have been determined all interested American business groups will be invited to participate. Johnston told a press conference that he believed both agriculture and labor should be called into the meeting.

"We were unprepared for peace when it came after World War I.," Crawford observed in commenting on the proposed meeting. "Such a conference as I have proposed would insure that we will be prepared this time so that peace will not catch us flatfooted in our economic preparation for the post-war period.

"Such a conference would promote that kind of international understanding and trade which in turn would help eliminate the cause of international economic friction because trade and economic friction always lie at the very heart of world conflict.

"There is a myriad of problems awaiting such a conference, not the least of which, of course, is a full discussion of the world's export and import trade in the post-war years, and thru what means of exchange and control it best can be handled."

Johnston Opposes Cartels.

Johnston commented at his press conference that the British are doing very little post-war planning, but "what they are thinking about contemplates a great deal more government control than we propose in this country."

"They are interested in cartels and monopolies," Johnston said. "They would have us divide up world markets with them thru cartels. I told them very frankly that it wouldn't work and that we believe in competition which we think assures lower prices and better service."

Congress Expects New Deal Plea for 30 Pct. Tax Boost

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—If the Administration has its way, and there is every reason to believe it will, at least in part, a much stiffer tax load will be heaped on the civilian and his business enterprises by the congress that reconvenes next week.

This conclusion is based on reports from the long series of tax conferences of administration leaders while congress has been vacationing. The tax goal most frequently discussed would increase the present burden 12 billion dollars or approximately 30 per cent.

Feasibility Questioned.

Altho Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the house ways and means committee and Chairman Walter F. George of the senate finance committee have expressed serious doubts such a vast increase could be made in the present tax load without dangerous dislocations, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau has clung tenaciously to the 12 billion figure.

The treasury maintains Americans now have about $15 of net spending money after taxes for every $10 worth of goods available. This $5 surplus, it contends, must be siphoned off to prevent inflation.

Revenue is coming into the federal coffers at an annual rate of 38 billion dollars. If congress enacts a bill to produce 12 billion in new revenue, the President's goal of raising sufficient funds to pay half the war costs as we go along will have been attained. War expenditures this year are placed at 101 billion.

Favors Spending Tax.

Secretary Morgenthau is expected to recommend to the President this week that a second effort be made to enact a spendings tax. He proposes all income over certain essentials classified as savings be taxed. Congressional hostility to such proposals is believed unchanged.

A sales tax, opposed in turn by the President and the treasury but favored by numerous legislators, is expected to receive serious consideration. Prospects for enactment of a federal sales tax, however, are believed less favorable now than a few months ago.

Compulsory savings for producing revenue and heading off inflation has been mentioned by the President, supported publicly by War Mobilization Director James Byrnes, and favored by several legislators and administration officials. Secretary Morgenthau bitterly opposes forced savings, however, as a threat to the war bond program.

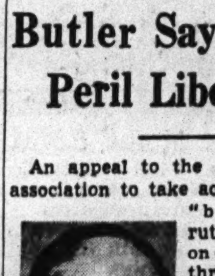
ASKS LAWYERS TO FIGHT OPA'S RUTHLESSNESS

Butler Says Rules Peril Liberties.

An appeal to the American Bar association to take action against a "brazen and ruthless attack on civil liberties" thru regulations of the office of price administration was made by State Sen. Walker Butler [R., 13th] in a letter mailed yesterday to the association's president, Joseph M. Henderson.



Sen. Walker Butler.

Butler's action was taken at the direction of the joint legislative petroleum investigating committee and followed disclosures of practices by OPA hearing commissioners that ignored the constitutional rights of citizens.

"The American people look to the lawyers of our country to lead the battle to preserve our Constitution," Butler wrote. "They look to the American Bar association to take the initiative to stop this program that is aimed at the destruction of our Bill of Rights."

Tells of Group's Hearings.

Butler said that in recent hearings held by the state committee an indication of some of the unconstitutional practices of OPA hearings was given the committee and that further investigation revealed rules of procedure that rode roughshod over individual rights guaranteed under the Constitution.

Butler criticized OPA regulations on subpenas in connection with issuance of rationing suspension orders.

"First the hearing commissioner," Butler said, "is given complete jurisdiction to decide if the respondent shall have the use of the only process provided to compel attendance of witnesses who might testify in respondent's behalf; second, the respondent must reveal to the OPA the nature of the facts to be proved by the witness, prior to the OPA—which is the plaintiff—deciding if it wants to allow testimony to be presented against its previously-assumed position; third, the requirement that a defendant must pay subpena fees and mileage, while the plaintiff shall not, is a unique invention that scarcely adds to the historical conception of the equality of parties before a court of justice."

Points to Regulation.

Butler also quoted the regulation on contemptuous conduct which ruled that such action shall be ground for exclusion from the hearing and that upon refusal of a witness to answer any question which has been ruled proper, the presiding officer may strike out all testimony previously given by the witness on related matters.

"It is of the utmost importance to note that no provision is made," Butler pointed out, "in a single line or word of these rules for respect or deference to the constitutional rights of the respondent. A child would know that no man—that is, no American—is required to give evidence against himself; if the author of this procedural regulation was not an individual opposed to the Constitution of the United States, this rule would have provided an exception in the case where a citizen's constitutional rights are involved.

"This is no mere omission, in the opinion of my neighbors in this community, because the principle of brazen and ruthless attack on the civil liberties of our citizens has been seen in practice all too frequently.

OPA Methods Related.

"Only within the last week a group of citizens of this city were subpenaed to come before one of the OPA hirelings for 'investigation.' They obeyed the subpenas, but fearful of the devious plotting that they had previously heard of, each one brought his attorney and a court reporter. The OPA 'gauleiter' directed each of the attorneys and court reporters to leave the room, and when they refused to do so, he announced he would not go ahead with the questioning until they departed.

"Many stories have been told of the ruthless invasion of private rights on the part of those who long ago conducted the inquisition and the 'star chamber' hearings, and more recently, the investigations of the secret police of Hitler and Mussolini. Such encroachments upon the natural rights of men to be secure in their person and property, except against due proces of law, has always met with fierce resistance on the part of any man worthy of the name.

'Cloaked as Patriotic.'

"These attacks, cloaked in the guise of patriotic effort, are the more insidious, because they normally would be tolerated by the average American citizen who wants to put up with anything—inconvenience, discomfort, even privation—to win the war.

"But the average citizen in this community is beginning to wonder how many of these federal jobholders are sincerely interested in winning the war as a first objective, and how many other federal jobholders are interested primarily in using the war as a convenient excuse to strangle the American form of government."

Banking Firms Clear Market for U. S. Drive

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—The nation's financial machinery today had been effectively cleared of one of the largest accumulations of private financing of the year in time to participate freely in the third and largest government war loan drive starting next Thursday.

Investment bankers and underwriters last week disposed of approximately 100 million dollars of stocks and bonds involving the unusually large total of a dozen separate transactions and including the first bid for "venture capital" for the air transport industry.

Timing Factor Sidetracked.

Traditionally, the organized business of placing large blocks of securities thru public offerings is a deliberate process wherein correct timing is often the difference between success or failure. Good stock and bond markets are considered elemental and underwriters usually try to obtain a favorable news background for the industry involved in the financing.

But these and other considerations went overboard quickly as syndicate managers put on a burst of speed to clear the slate of all pending business in conformity with the long established custom of bankers not to appear in the market with private financing when the government is engaged in selling securities publicly.

Braniff Stock Quickly Sold.

The quick over-subscription of a new issue of 400,000 shares of Braniff airways capital stock aroused widespread comment. M. H. Pontius, partner in the investment firm of F. Eberstadt & Co., which headed the syndicate, said the offering was exceptionally well received in all parts of the country.

Quick on the heels of this sale came offerings of more than 20,000 shares of All-American Aviation preferred and 200,000 shares of Northeast Airlines common, both of which moved satisfactorily.

Other transactions included sale of 100,000 shares of the First National Bank of Portland, Ore., the first appearance of an out of town bank stock in the New York market in years; a block of bonds and stock of the Pennsylvania Electric company, and 450,000 shares of Idaho Power common, sold by Electric Power & Light in a divestment program.

Other Big Issues Shelved.

In preparing to plunge into the new government financing drive with their extensive organizations, investment bankers pigeonholed for the time being an extensive program of new and refunding financing involving hundreds of millions of dollars and some well known names in American industry.

Large items underwriters expect to market this fall include 70,000 preferred shares and an undetermined number of common shares of the Colorado Milling & Elevator company, for refunding purposes; 75,000 shares of Emerson Radio capital stock; 16 million in bonds, 40,000 shares of preferred and 480,000 shares of common of the California Electric Power company; more than 50 million of bonds and 140,000 shares of stock of the Florida Power & Light company; 37 million of Utah Power and Light bonds; 22 million of bonds and debentures of Laclede Gas Light, and 20 million in preferred stock of McKesson & Robbins.

SERRICK CORP. EARNS LESS IN YEAR TO JUNE 30

Profit of $347,717, equal to $2 a share on the class B common stock after A common dividend requirements, was reported yesterday by the Serrick corporation, Defiance, O., for the fiscal year ended June 30. Profit in the preceding year was $373,255, equal to $2.17 a B share.

Sales in the latest fiscal year were $5,316,468 against $4,878,323 the year before, L. F. Serrick, president, announced. He told stockholders that the latest earnings figure was subject to change as the result of government renegotiation of war contracts.

Pullman Sleepers Move 30,000 Troops Nightly

Pullman company's sleeping cars are carrying an average of 30,000 troops a night, B. E. Dewey, superintendent of car service for the company for 54 years, said yesterday. He estimated that 15 million troops have been transported by sleeping car since Pearl Harbor, the average soldier making seven or eight trips before he leaves the country. Two-thirds of these trips are made by sleeping car, acording to Dewey.

THE SEPT. 15 WORKSHEET.

The treasury's new worksheet for estimating 1943 income tax and victory tax calls for a listing on line 1 of total estimated income from wages, dividends, interest, rents, and other sources, including "net profits from farming and other business." Are we to understand that the gross amount of income from rents, for example, is to be entered, rather than the net income after allowing for expenses?—Dr. A. N.

Answer: Only the net income from dividends, rents, and other sources should be entered as estimated income on line 1 of the worksheet. Professional persons, such as doctors and dentists, would enter only the net amount of fees received, after deducting professional expenses. There would be no deduction, however, for such items as contributions, taxes on a personal residence, etc., since the table shown in the worksheet makes an allowance for these deductions.

IDAHO HIKES POTATO CROP; NOW HOPES IT CAN REACH MARKETS

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 5 (AP).—Idaho farmers increased their potato plantings 60,000 acres this year. Now they wonder whether they will be able to get the bumper crop to market.

"Labor, equipment, storage, and transportation will all be much shorter than would be considered adequate for the crop under normal conditions," the state agricultural war board said in a prepared statement.

But instead of a normal crop of less than 30 million bushels—the average produced in the last decade—current indications are that Idaho's 1943 production will be 43,425,000 bushels. The crop is planted on approximately 193,000 acres compared with 133,000 acres last year.

If the farmers coöperate by exchanging equipment and labor and make full use of federal facilities provided for them, the war board said it believed the crop could be marketed. It said considerable new storage facilities were constructed in Idaho during the summer by dealers and farmers, but that the crop is expected to be larger than can be cared for by existing storage facilities.

About 230 new potato diggers have been allotted to Idaho under the nation-wide machinery rationing program, but manufacturers have served notice that many will not arrive until well toward the end of the potato harvesting season.

Already the harvest is underway, but it will not reach its peak until late September and October.

Many schools started classwork three to four weeks earlier than usual this year to permit harvest vacations so that students may assist in the farm fields.

CANNERIES NEED 400 WORKERS TO ADD NEW SHIFT

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 5 [Special].—Corn and tomato canneries in this area will need at least 400 more workers to meet the peak load expected this week, officials said today. The tomato factories will expand to two shifts and the corn canneries will start running 24 hours a day processing the white corn crop.

Housewives were urged to volunteer to work in the plants. Also needed are more able bodied men to handle heavier lifting jobs. A big percentage of the tomato pack will be taken by the government for military use.

CANADA EXPORTS OF WAR WHEAT NEAR 1939 LEVEL

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 5 (AP).—Incomplete figures today indicated that altho war has adversely affected shipping facilities, exports of Canadian wheat for the year ended July 31 probably will be as large as in 1938-'39, the last pre-war crop year. For almost a year, security reasons prevented the publication of wheat exports. Now the ban has been relaxed sufficiently to permit exports to be made public.

On this basis, the dominion bureau of statistics could report that for 8 months of the 1942-'43 crop year—from August, 1942, to last April—136,943,288 bushels of Canadian wheat were exported, compared with 116,366,801 bushels in the corresponding 9 months of 1938-'39, when sea lanes were wide open.

BROKER'S LOANS RISE.

The federal reserve board reported that loans to brokers and dealers on securities held by reporting member banks in New York city totaled 988 million dollars in the week ended Sept. 1, an increase of 80 million during the week. Loans a year ago totaled 377 million.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

Sept. 5, 1943.

THE Labor day schedule for thousands of middle western farmers this year includes chores in the morning, field work all day, and more chores in the evening. The farm labor shortage decrees that many rural families take no notice of this September holiday, but those who do have some free time in the afternoon may visit nearby towns for a little diversion.

At Plano, near the Fox river farm, there'll be a Labor day celebration, with a concert by an accordion band in the afternoon and another by a brass band in the evening. A state senator will talk from the speakers' platform to family groups which will be eating cold friend chicken and drinking coffee from a thermos jug. Then in the evening the farmers who don't have to go home to finish their chores may sit on wooden benches to move corn kernels over pieces of cardboard labeled "Bingo."

Fair Farmers' Convention.

Later this week the De Kalb county fair will draw farm people from all over north central Illinois to the town of Sandwich. The county fair is the farmer's convention. Just as doctors convene to hear about the most recent discoveries in medicine, and hosiery manufacturers get together to learn about the latest restrictions and developments in their business, so the farmers meet once a year at the county fairs all over the country.

They depend upon fairs to learn about new machinery which may help them do their work more efficiently, compare notes with their neighbors about the bloodlines of their cattle and hogs, and inquire about the progress of the crops in adjacent areas. For the farm women the fair provides opportunities to see old neighbors and look at the home made quilts and needlepoint pillows and canned foods entered for the judging.

Live Stock Interest Center.

Judging of the live stock, of course, is the most important feature of most county fairs, and the cattle competition at the Sandwich fair will be especially interesting to the men from THE TRIBUNE's Yorkville farm. A young Angus steer which they sold to a neighbor boy recently won a 4-H competition for the lad and has been entered in the county competition. So the farm people will be on hand to watch the judging and see if the steer from their herd wins again.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who have an asparagus bed, or plan to have one next season, can do some work this month which will insure a good crop next spring. The gardener of the sample plots on the Wheaton farm will follow this program in the asparagus patch:

The foliage will be cut off just above ground level this month. Then manure or compost material will be spread liberally between the rows, since asparagus requires maximum amounts of humus for highest production and quality. After the fertilizer has been applied, the entire bed will be spaded to a depth of four to five inches. The soil will be left in clods, not raked.

Asparagus thrives best in an alkaline soil, and annual or bienniel applications of lime are very beneficial. The farm gardener recommends 100 pounds of lime to 750 square feet of asparagus beds.

Gardeners planning to plant asparagus next spring can treat their beds in the manner outlined above, altho in this case deeper spading is recommended.

THIS is a new map of Italy and contiguous areas, showing the island of Sicily, which was conquered recently by allied forces, and the Strait of Messina, between Sicily and the Italian mainland, across which the first full-scale invasion of the European continent in this war has been accomplished by British and Canadian troops. It was in the very toe of the Italian boot, the territorial district of Calabria, that the allies struck their first blow by land on the Italian mainland. The name Calabria appears in capital letters, as do the names of the country's other districts. At Italy's west lie two other large islands that are of great strategic importance. These are Sardinia, belonging to Italy, and Corsica, belonging to France. In the extreme north of Italy, as shown on the map, are the rugged Alps. Principal passes thru the mountains, some of which may serve as invasion routes into Germany, are designated. Inset map at upper right shows Rome and its environs on an enlarged scale.
